Thant Sees Pact Applying Brake To Arms Race

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — U.N. Secretary-General U Thant has hailed the limited nuclear test-ban treaty as a development of major significance. He expressed hope Sunday that all nations of the world would become parties to it.

Thant said the ban not only would end the danger of radioactive fallout but also would put a brake on the arms race by restricting the spread of nuclear weapons and limiting the development of new weapons of mass destruction.

The secretary-general said he was convinced the "enduring cause of world peace will prevail over short-range political considerations" or considerations of national interest.

Thant's remarks were presented in the introduction to his annual report to the General Assembly which meets Sept. 17. He told the 111-nation assembly the international outlook had been brightened by an improvement in U.S.-Soviet relations and by improved conditions in the Congo. He said the United Nations itself had been strengthened by developments in the past year and declared that the test-ban treaty, if followed by other measures to ease international tension, "may be the beginning of a new era of better understanding."

Thant dwelt at length on the test ban and the broader question of disarmament which he said "continues to be the most important problem of our time." He described the test ban and the "hot line" between Washington and Moscow as important first steps which may open the way for more substantial progress in the Geneva disarmament negotiations.

Turning to the Congo problem, the secretary-general expressed satisfaction with the steady improvement of the situation and disclosed that he would submit proposals soon for winding up the military phase of the U.S. Congo operation.

Khrush At Tito's Retreat For Talks

PULA, Yugoslavia (AP) — Premier Khrushchev arrived at President Tito's secluded Brioni Island retreat Sunday for private talks with the Yugoslav leader. There were indications that some kind of economic understanding might be in the works.

Tito was on the dock as the Kremlin chief arrived after a two-day cruise up the Adriatic aboard Tito's yacht Galeb (seagull). Brioni lies three miles off this summer resort on the southern tip of the Istrian Peninsula.

'Hot' Dynamite Explodes, Killing Four Or Five Men

BUTTE, Mont. (AP) — A rendezvous to transfer what was believed to be about three tons of stolen dynamite ended in death Saturday night for four, possibly five men.

Pieces of automobile wreckage and human remains were so fragmented and widely scattered that authorities were not sure how many persons were involved in the clandestine meeting, nor who they were.

Law enforcement officers, waiting at the scene in East Side Butte after a tip, were closing in

Sponsors Pledge Nonviolent Rally

WASHINGTON (AP) — The start of march-week Sunday found sponsors of Wednesday's huge civil rights demonstration pledging anew that it will be orderly. And to help them carry out their promise thousands of security officers are standing by after careful training and instruction.

This force will be largely responsible for keeping orderly the march by an anticipated 100,000 or more Negroes and white persons. It is charged not only with spotting and checking any troublemakers but will deal also with pickpockets and balloon vendors.

The biggest police task may turn out to be just avoiding a truly monumental traffic jam that could set records for size and duration.

Troops Ready If Needed

The force will include 1,900 policemen, 2,000 National Guardsmen, 350 firemen, 250 to 300 civilian police reserves, 2,000 parade marshals and—if needed—4,000 waiting soldiers and Marines.

Their work is beginning early, with some plainclothes policemen already watching bus terminals and the Union Station to spot known pickpockets and other criminals.

During the march itself, FBI agents will mix with the crowds and look for members of the American Nazi party and the Black Muslims, arresting them if they cause trouble. Police have refused permits for any other group to demonstrate in Washington on Wednesday.

George Lincoln Rockwell, head of the anti-Negro, anti-Jew American Nazi party, was denied a permit to march on Wednesday but said he would try to rally his followers before dawn at the Washington Monument grounds, a focal point for the pre-march assembly of civil rights advocates.

Counterdemonstration

In New York on Saturday, William Hoff, describing himself as New York State director of the National Civil Rights party, said a delegation from his party will be among "40 groups" which will counterdemonstrate here Wednesday.

In a statement Sunday, leaders of 10 organizations sponsoring the march gave this projection of what it will be: "It will be orderly, but not subservient. It will be proud, but not arrogant. It will be nonviolent, but not timid. It will be unified in purposes and behavior, not splintered into groups and individual competitors. It will be outspoken, but not raucous.

"We call upon them—marchers, all, black and white, to resist provocations to disorder and violence.

"We ask them to remember that evil persons are determined to smear this march and to discredit the cause of equality by deliberate efforts to stir disorder."

On the men from opposite directions when a man was seen running. He was spotted in the lights of the cars carrying a case of dynamite.

One officer said he saw the man drop the case and then a mushroom cloud, turning from yellow to fire red, rose 100 feet or more.

Three craters, the largest five feet deep and about 16 feet across, marked the spot.

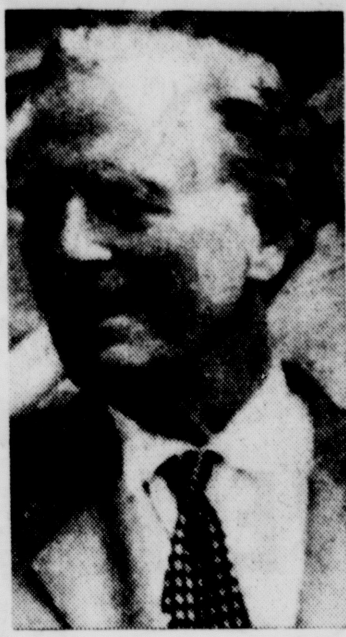

Asst. Police Chief Vern Madcock and Deputy Sheriff Ken Cunningham were approaching in a jeep when the blast occurred.

Both were cut but they did not require hospitalization.

Officers said they hoped to identify the victims through the numbers on fractured engine blocks and other small bits of identifying material.

They said the largest bit of flesh in the area was about the size of a man's hand.

Windows up to two miles away in downtown Butte were shattered. A 3-year-old boy, whose home was several blocks from the scene, was cut by flying glass from a window over his bed.

Treaty Forces Hope Pentagon Has Met Doubts

WASHINGTON (AP) — Hoping that a Defense Department statement has met senatorial doubts about security safeguards, proponents of the pending limited nuclear test ban treaty prepared Sunday to resist alteration of the pact on the Senate floor.

One of the Republican backers of the treaty, Sen. Jacob K. Javits of New York, said any such reservations would be both unfortunate and unjustified.

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee will continue hearings this week with members of the Armed Services and Joint Atomic Energy Committee sitting in. Although last week's testimony ran heavily to criticism, it is anticipated the Foreign Relations Committee will submit a favorable report not long after Labor Day.

Sen. J.W. Fulbright, D-Ark., the Foreign Relations chairman, said his feeling is "our only trouble will be with people trying to tack on reservations to cripple the treaty."

In a letter to Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., chairman of the Armed Services Committee, Deputy Secretary of Defense Roswell Gilpatric Saturday outlined the steps the Defense Department proposes to take to meet security safeguards if the treaty is ratified.

In an accompanying letter, Gen. Maxwell Taylor, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, told Russell the Pentagon's $100-million-a-year program meets the conditions the Joint Chiefs attached to their approval of the test-ban treaty.

The program outlined by Gilpatric stresses stepped up underground weapons-testing—the only type not banned by the treaty—and procedures to insure swift resumption of atmospheric testing if the treaty is breached.

China Labor Camp Revolt Reported

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP) — An independent Chinese Nationalist news agency claimed Sunday that an anti-Communist uprising by more than 500 club-wielding inmates broke out Aug. 10 in a Communist labor camp farm near Canton.

Chung Hsing News Agency, quoting underground contacts on the mainland, said more than 10 Communists were killed and the rebels suffered heavy casualties. It added that reinforcements were rushed to the farm and more than 300 rebels were arrested.

Drill Operators 'Little Nervous' As Shaft Nears Miners

HAZLETON, Pa. (AP) — How closer you get the more dangerous it feels to be running a 65-ton ore chisel.

Cherko said, "I'm like the other guys I talked to. We're all a little nervous."

Marino, Cherko, and many others have been on this job since it started. Some of the men, such as Cherko, are not even sure if it is to sink a drill which can exert 70,000 to 75,000 pounds of pressure with such delicacy that an already weakened layer of coal will not be disturbed.

The slightest false move could send tons of coal crashing down upon the two men, David Fellin, 58, and Henry Throne, 28, trapped by a cave-in in 331 feet underground.

Louis Marino, 32, of Pittston, who is in charge of the drilling operation commented: "The

Job Of Reaming Freedom Hole In Final Phase

HAZLETON, Pa. (AP) — Enlargement of the final section of the escape hole for Henry Throne and David Fellin began Sunday. If all goes well, experts estimated this phase should be completed early Monday night.

The next step would be to haul the men, in their 13th day 331 feet underground, to the surface in a specially designed rescue capsule.

The escape hole's final section—almost as deep as a football field is long—will be enlarged to 18 inches, adding a half-inch to the width decided on Saturday. This is to provide extra margin to keep the 15-inch wide capsule from catching.

30-Inch Hole For 34 Feet

A brilliant sun was shining, and the air was crisp and cool, as the giant drilling rig, as tall as a 10-story building, started the 18-inch enlarging work. The first 34 feet of the escape hole was enlarged by a 30-inch drill early Sunday and then 24-inch steel casings fitted into this space. Once the casings were lined up properly, and the outside of them repacked with earth for additional stability, the final phase of the enlarging operation began.

A short distance from the giant rig, a smaller one is boring a three-inch hole in the direction where Louis Bova, 42, who was trapped with the others, was last reported. He has not been heard from since Tuesday and is separated from the others by about 25 feet of debris.

There have been four attempts to send a small lifeline hole—like the one which reached Throne and Fellin eight days ago—to him.

After the lifeline hole hit the 14-foot by 9-foot chamber of Throne and Fellin, food and other supplies were lowered to them through it. Then, on Friday, after two failures, a second hole—this one 12 inches in diameter—was drilled successfully.

Epic Of Courage

It is this 12-inch hole that is being enlarged to bring them to the surface.

The experience of Fellin and Throne has been saluted the world over as an epic of endurance and courage. The cave-in was at 9 a.m. Aug. 13.

Fellin and Throne chatted with rescuers and friends Saturday, talking about everything from the weather and singing to cigars and the best way to cook spaghetti.

A Navy doctor and survival specialist tried to get them on the serious subject of their own well-being, to give him information that might help in their treatment later. But Throne would have none of it. He started talking about calisthenics.

"Feel good," he said, "Right now I can do about 30 pushups. I did 10 of them an hour ago."

The doctor gave up, saying, "You two have been down there so long you're both survival experts."

Two Men Killed In Quarry Slide

QUINCY, Mass. (UPI) — Two men were killed and three others were injured Sunday when they were buried under rock and dirt in a landslide at a granite quarry.

ice call in nearby Carbondale here when his boss told him to stop in at the cave-in site.

Rank, who knows every nut and bolt in the drill, was at the controls Friday when it made the long-awaited and crucial breakthrough into the underground chamber.

"I had a lump in my throat when they hollered to me that we were through. I think I even had a few tears. It was a good feeling."

Rank took a short break from the operation and flew home to pressure and high speed could keep a doctor's appointment. He was back Saturday morning.

"I suppose I could have stayed home and told them I couldn't make it back," he said. "But I and fine judgement of the man at the controls."

Copters To Remove Miners

Two Marine helicopters yesterday arrived in the Hazleton, Pa., mine area where three men are trapped 330 feet underground in preparation for rushing the two known survivors to a hospital once they are brought to the surface. Meanwhile, a huge drilling rig at left continues to ream away at an escape hole already down to the two men. Barring further delays or mishaps the men may be brought up tonight. (AP Photofax)

Israel, Jordan Units Exchange Heavy Gunfire

JERUSALEM, Israeli Sector (AP) — Stone-throwing incidents touched off brief but fierce gun-fights between Israeli and Jordanian border forces early Sunday. An Israeli spokesman said one Israeli soldier was killed.

Both sides complained to U.N. truce teams.

Bazooka shells whizzed across the no-man's land separating the Jordanian and Israeli sectors of this ancient holy city. Tracer bullets lit the sky.

Tourists at the plush King David Hotel in the Israeli sector streamed in near panic into the lobby in their nightclothes.

It was the worst exchange of gunfire at this sensitive border point in years and came on the heels of a buildup in tensions between Israel and Syria. The Israeli-Syrian dispute is before the U.S. Security Council in New York.

The King David Hotel is the nearest inhabited building to the scene of the fighting that went on sporadically from midnight to 4 a.m. The hotel, which was bombed in a clash in 1946, is perched on the ancient walls surrounding Jordanian Jerusalem.

Heavy firing near the hotel brought the guests down at 3:20 a.m.

"I came here for a vacation," complained one American woman. "I don't want to take part in a war."

After the firing stopped, many guests went back to their rooms and prepared to check out.

Each side blamed the incident on stone-throwing by border forces of the other.

Beulah No Threat

MIAMI (UPI) — Hurricane Beulah, packing 105 mile-per-hour winds, boiled on a harmless course across the tropical Atlantic Sunday as scientists continued experimenting with ways to control its fury.

The latest advisory put the center of the season's second and most severe storm near latitude 28.5 north, longitude 60.5 west, or about 375 miles southeast of Bermuda.

Javits Will Propose Rail Seizure By JFK

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., said Sunday he will try to amend the rail labor bill to permit the President to seize and operate the nation's railroads to avoid a strike.

The measure is expected to be the major item before Congress this week although hearings on the limited nuclear test ban agreement will continue before two sets of Senate committees and leaders of both houses will meet with civil rights leaders during the march on Washington Wednesday.

Javits said he will offer his proposal authorizing presidential seizure as an alternative to compulsory arbitration.

Most of the nation's railroads plan to institute new work rules at 12:01 Thursday morning.

Spokesmen for the five rail operating unions have said such action will mean an immediate strike. The new work rules could do away with some 32,500 jobs of engine firemen.

The Senate Commerce Committee last week approved a bill that would put the two major issues—the jobs of freight-train and yard engine firemen and the makeup of train crews—before a seven-man arbitration board.

Also approved, despite some Democratic opposition in the committee, was a proviso that lesser issues be negotiated for up to 120 days then, if that fails, be placed before the arbitration board.

Javits' proposal would authorize President Kennedy to seize the railroads before the strike begins and to operate them under a court-appointed receiver.

Javits said that while the committee bill purports to go only part way toward compulsory arbitration—which the unions have bitterly opposed—"it does require appointment of arbitrators by both management and labor."

Thus even this limited type of compulsory arbitration could fail the unions because their or if either management or labor reorganization had been infiltrated by Communists who endangered the issues omitted from South Viet Nam's war against Red guerrillas.

Police Make Mass Arrest Of Students

Thousands Seized, Two Girls Wounded; Coup Fears Eased

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP) — Armed police backed by troops in full battle gear stamped out a mass student revolt in the making Sunday.

Thousands of university students were arrested. Several were injured. Two teenage girl students were wounded by rifle fire. Reports that some had been killed could not be confirmed.

By nightfall the army, which took over under martial law decrees four days ago, was still in complete control. Fears of an attempted coup subsided.

At the height of the mass roundup of students, the army stationed anti-aircraft batteries around the palace and at scores of strategic intersections in the capital of South Viet Nam.

The army apparently feared elements of the Vietnamese air force might attack the palace, as they did in November, 1960, in another attempted coup.

Tension Eases

By nightfall the anti-aircraft batteries were still posted at their stations but tension appeared to have eased momentarily.

Saigon bristled with barbed wire barricades and movements throughout the city were sharply restricted. Curfew was in force and censorship prevailed.

No government official was available to give an estimate on the number arrested or injured. Police rounded up the students as they converged on the University of Saigon for a planned demonstration against the government.

The students never had a chance to stage their planned demonstration. As they rode up in bicycles, scooters and motorcycles they were hauled off, thrown into trucks and driven away.

Roads leading to the residence of new U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge were cleared to prevent a possible student demonstration there.

Nhu Hits U. S. Criticism

The army troops were backed by riot and city police as well as companies of armed "Republican Youth," a paramilitary force headed by Ngo Dinh Nhu, the president's brother who is generally regarded as South Viet Nam's strong man.

The demonstrating students were joined by some Buddhist followers, who accuse Diem's regime of religious discrimination.

The New York Times quoted Nhu as saying in an interview in Saigon that Americans and others abroad have been "intoxicated" by ritual suicides of five Buddhist monks and their followers.

Nhu took sharp issue with the U.S. State Department and other U.S. critics of Diem's regime. The Times' dispatch from Saigon said it quoted Nhu as saying the government had to act against compulsory arbitration could fail the Buddhists because their or if either management or labor reorganization had been infiltrated by Communists who endangered the issues omitted from South Viet Nam's war against Red guerrillas.

Javits Will Propose Rail Seizure By JFK

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., said Sunday he will try to amend the rail labor bill to permit the President to seize and operate the nation's railroads to avoid a strike.

The measure is expected to be the major item before Congress this week although hearings on the limited nuclear test ban agreement will continue before two sets of Senate committees and leaders of both houses will meet with civil rights leaders during the march on Washington Wednesday.

Javits said he will offer his proposal authorizing presidential seizure as an alternative to compulsory arbitration.

Most of the nation's railroads plan to institute new work rules at 12:01 Thursday morning.

Spokesmen for the five rail operating unions have said such action will mean an immediate strike. The new work rules could do away with some 32,500 jobs of engine firemen.

The Senate Commerce Committee last week approved a bill that would put the two major issues—the jobs of freight-train and yard-engine firemen and the makeup of train crews—before a seven-man arbitration board.

Also approved, despite some Democratic opposition in the committee, was a proviso that lesser issues be negotiated for up to 120 days then, if that fails, be placed before the arbitration board.

Javits' proposal would authorize President Kennedy to seize the railroads before the strike begins and to operate them under a court-appointed receiver.

Javits said that while the committee bill purports to go only part way toward compulsory arbitration—which the unions have bitterly opposed—"it does require appointment of arbitrators by both management and labor. Thus even this limited type of compulsory arbitration could fail if either management or labor refused to appoint arbitrators or to agree on the issues omitted from arbitration."

55 American Students Leave Cuba For Spain

HAVANA (UPI) — Fifty-five American students here on an illegal junket departed for Madrid Sunday at 5 P.M. EDT aboard an Iberia airliner.

An earlier departure set for 4 A.M. Sunday morning was delayed when the Iberia plane had mechanical trouble.

It was the latest in a long list of delays. The previous difficulties in leaving Cuba led the students to charge Sunday that the U.S. State Department was trying to make them late for college registration as a reprisal for their coming to Cuba.

The students defied U.S. immigration law to come here, and they face stiff penalties upon their return. They were guests of the Cuban government, which flew them here from Prague, Czechoslovakia, in July.

The Cuban government "bounced" 55 would-be Cuban refugees from the passenger manifest to make room for the students.

The students said they have organized a "permanent committee for student travel to Cuba" and will encourage other American students to visit the island.

Russian Hate Campaign Against China Intensified

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet hate campaign against Red China reached another peak this week, end.

The government newspaper Izvestia Saturday night printed an expose on food rationing in China. Sunday, the Communist party newspaper Pravda compared Chinese propaganda with that issued by Adolf Hitler's propaganda minister, Joseph Goebbels. And for good measure, the official Soviet military news paper Krasnaya Zvezda (Red Star) hammered at the Chinese for turning "their weapons against neutralist India."

The revelations about food rationing in China were in an Izvestia article which criticized Chinese newspapers for reporting that food is more expensive in the Soviet Union than in China. Izvestia retorted that the opposite is true — "Food and clothing cost less in the U.S.S.R. than in China."

"One more important thing," Izvestia said, "Goods and food products can be bought freely in our country but in China they are in short supply. Strict food rationing has existed there since 1951 and in recent years there has been rationing for practically all consumer goods."

Izvestia said it was necessary

Police Make Mass Arrest Of Students

Thousands Seized, Two Girls Wounded; Coup Fears Eased

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP) — Armed police backed by troops in full battle gear stamped out a mass student revolt in the making Sunday.

Thousands of university students were arrested. Several were injured. Two teen-age girl students were wounded by rifle fire. Reports that some had been killed could not be confirmed.

By nightfall the army, which took over under martial law decrees four days ago, was still in complete control. Fears of an attempted coup subsided.

At the height of the mass roundup of students, the army stationed anti-aircraft batteries around the palace and at scores of strategic intersections in the capital of South Viet Nam.

The army apparently feared elements of the Vietnamese air force might attack the palace, as they did in November, 1960, in another attempted coup.

Tension Eases

By nightfall the anti-aircraft batteries were still posted at their stations but tension appeared to have eased momentarily.

Saigon bristled with barbed wire barricades and movements throughout the city were sharply restricted. Curfew was in force and censorship prevailed.

No government official was available to give an estimate on the number arrested or injured.

Police rounded up the students as they converged on the University of Saigon for a planned demonstration against the government.

The students never had a chance to stage their planned demonstration. As they rode up in bicycles, scooters and motorcycles they were hauled off, thrown into trucks and driven away.

Roads leading to the residence of new U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge were cleared to prevent a possible student demonstration there.

Nhu Hits U. S. Criticism

The army troops were backed by riot and city police as well as companies of armed "Republican Youth," a paramilitary force headed by Ngo Dinh Nhu, the president's brother who is generally regarded as South Viet Nam's strong man.

The demonstrating students were joined by some Buddhist followers, who accuse Diem's regime of religious discrimination.

The New York Times quoted Nhu as saying in an interview in Saigon that Americans and others abroad have been "intoxicated" by ritual suicides of five Buddhist monks and their followers.

Nhu took sharp issue with the U.S. State Department and other U.S. critics of Diem's regime. The Times' dispatch from Saigon said. It quoted Nhu as saying the government had to act against the Buddhists because their organization had been infiltrated by Communists — who endangered Red guerrillas.

Laborer Is Held In Razor Killing Of Baltimorean

BALTIMORE (AP) — Baltimore police arrested a 30-year-old laborer Sunday in connection with the razor killing of a father of five children and the rape of the victim's wife.

Police said they arrested the suspect, a Baltimore man, at a bus station after he bought a one-way ticket to Philadelphia. Police said he was carrying bloody clothing in his luggage.

Police Lt. James Middleton said the suspect would be given a lie detector test Monday morning.

The attack on the couple occurred early Saturday morning. Mrs. Naomi Duffy, 24, said she awoke and saw her husband, James, 39, struggling in the darkness with an intruder who had broken into their first-floor apartment.

The attacker slashed Duffy's throat with what police believed was an old-fashioned straight razor. He also slashed Mrs. Duffy on her face before attacking her. Eighty stitches were used to close the wounds.

The Duffy family came to Baltimore from California in March. He lost his job as a vacuum cleaner salesman a week ago and had applied for welfare. Their children range in age from 1 to 6 years.

Two Persons Killed On State Highways

By The Associated Press
Maryland's highway death toll rose to 370 as two persons died in separate accidents Sunday. Last year at this time 351 persons had been killed.

State Police said the latest victim, identified only as Roy Jarman, was struck by a car as he was standing next to his disabled car on the Baltimore-Washington Expressway in Anne Arundel County.

Earlier in the day, William Daniels, 35, of Pocomoke City, was killed when his car ran off Maryland 363 and slammed into some trees in Somerset County, police said.

Son Of Prominent Capital Lawyer Slain By Robber

WASHINGTON (AP) — The 27-year-old son of a prominent Washington attorney was slain early Sunday by a would-be robber near his home in a fashionable residential area, police reported.

He was identified as Newell Windom Ellison Jr., a graduate student in the Yale English Department. Police said he was shot twice in the chest and was dead on arrival at Washington Hospital Center.

Officers said Ellison apparently was out walking his basset hound, which he did nightly before going to sleep, when the incident occurred.

They reported that Ellison ap-

Two Salisbury Jail Escapees Captured

DELMAR, Del. (AP)—State Police apprehended Sunday two men who had escaped from the Wicomico County jail in Salisbury, Md. Saturday.

Police said that they were tipped off that the two men, Cecil Davis, 29, of Dover, Del., and Charles Nutter, 20, of Salisbury, were walking along railroad tracks north of here. The men were arrested shortly afterwards. They offered no resistance.

Davis and Nutter fled the jail after they cut through the cell bars and slugged a guard.

Davis was awaiting trial on a murder charge. Nutter was to be tried on burglary and larceny charges.

Crash Injures Pilot

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP) — A light private plane crashed at the College Park Airport Sunday seriously injuring its pilot, Edward C. Kloss, 25, of Philadelphia. Kloss said he was on his way here from Philadelphia, authorities at Leland Memorial Hospital near here reported. They said Kloss told them he didn't remember how the crash happened but that the runway appeared short.

Ann Landers . . .

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Please excuse the mistakes in this letter. I have two black eyes and one of them is completely shut.

I married a man I knew only three weeks. He seemed like such a perfect gentleman I could hardly believe it when he knocked out my pivot tooth on our honeymoon.

He loses his temper over the silliest things. Like last night—he hit me because the TV broke down. He said I should "watch those things."

We've been married less than seven months and I've already spent $380 of my own money with the dentist. I've had so many bruises and shiners I've lost count. When I ordered beefsteak from the butcher yesterday he said, "To eat or for your eye?"

I'm ashamed to go out in the neighborhood anymore.

Please help me, Ann, but don't tell me to leave him. I love this man. He is truly wonderful between these spells. Thanks a lot.

—QUEENIE
DEAR QUEENIE: So you love the man and you don't want me to tell you to leave him. Fine. Stay with him until he scrambles your brains and puts you in the hospital with a fractured skull.

Perhaps when your money is gone, and your credit at the bank runs out, you'll write for some advice you can use instead of telling me what not to tell you.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a college graduate, 26, and have been dating a very beautiful girl since last February. Lila is 21 and she is really terrific. The only thing missing is that she refuses to express an opinion.

Last night the two of us had dinner and instead of going to a movie I suggested a long drive. I wanted to make one last effort to get her to talk about something—anything. Her contribution to four hours of conversation was as follows: "You can say that again." "Well, I'll be darned." "Isn't that the truth?" "And how!" When I asked her direct questions she replied, "I don't know how I feel about that."

Why would a girl be so reluctant to express herself on any subject whatever? Please explain this mystery.

—8TH WONDER
DEAR 8th: Don't look now, Buddy Boy, but the girl is brainless. If she had an idea it would probably give her a headache. And if you can listen to "And how!" "You can say that again." "Well, I'll be darned" for seven months and call the girl "terrific" you obviously do not require intellectual stimulation from your female companions.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Three cheers for you. You've scored again! You've given frustrated American parents across the continent the key to handling their children. In your reply to "Maple Leaf Mother" you said, "Teen-agers have a truly magnificent way of living up to their parents' high opinion of them."

I'm a teenager who can tell you from experience that this approach really works. I used to live next door to a girl my age who was being raised by an aunt and an uncle. They told her she was "no good" so often that the poor thing finally got into the worst kind of trouble. She had nothing to live up to. My parents have always made me feel trustworthy. They just expect me to live up to their high opinion of me. And I would rather die than let them down.

—TEEN 16
DEAR TEEN: And three cheers right back to you. And a loud hurrah for your parents, too. Letters like yours brighten my day. It's good to hear from someone who chooses the high road and discovers it leads to happiness. Are you going steady? Making marriage plans? If so, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "Before You Marry—Is It Love Or Sex?" enclosing with your request 20c in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Ann Landers . . .

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Please excuse the mistakes in this letter. I have two black eyes and one of them is completely shut.

I married a man I knew only three weeks. He seemed like such a perfect gentleman I could hardly believe it when he knocked out my pivot tooth on our honeymoon.

He loses his temper over the silliest things. Like last night—he hit me because the TV broke down. He said I should "watch those things."

We've been married less than seven months and I've already spent $380 of my own money with the dentist. I've had so many bruises and shiners I've lost count. When I ordered beefsteak from the butcher yesterday he said, "To eat or for your eye?"

I'm ashamed to go out in the neighborhood anymore.

Please help me, Ann, but don't tell me to leave him. I love this man. He is truly wonderful between these spells. Thanks a lot.

—QUEENIE

DEAR QUEENIE: So you love the man and you don't want me to tell you to leave him. Fine. Stay with him until he scrambles your brains and puts you in the hospital with a fractured skull.

Perhaps when your money is gone, and your credit at the bank runs out, you'll write for some advice you can use instead of telling me what not to tell you.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a college graduate, 26, and have been dating a very beautiful girl since last February. Lila is 21 and she is really terrific. The only thing missing is that she refuses to express an opinion.

Last night the two of us had dinner and instead of going to a movie I suggested a long drive. I wanted to make one last effort to get her to talk about something—anything. Her contribution to four hours of conversation was as follows: "You can say that again." "Well, I'll be darned." "Isn't that the truth?" "And how!" When I asked her direct questions she replied, "I don't know how I feel about that."

Why would a girl be so reluctant to express herself on any subject whatever? Please explain this mystery.

—8TH WONDER

DEAR 8th: Don't look now, Buddy Boy, but the girl is brainless. If she had an idea it would probably give her a headache. And if you can listen to "And how!" "You can say that again."

"Well, I'll be darned" for seven months and call the girl "terrific" you obviously do not require intellectual stimulation from your female companions.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Three cheers for you. You've scored again! You've given frustrated American parents across the continent the key to handling their children. In your reply to "Maple Leaf Mother" you said, "Teenagers have a truly magnificent way of living up to their parents' high opinion of them."

I'm a teenager who can tell you from experience that this approach really works. I used to live next door to a girl my age who was being raised by an aunt and an uncle. They told her she was "no good" so often that the poor thing finally got into the worst kind of trouble. She had nothing to live up to.

My parents have always made me feel trustworthy. They just expect me to live up to their high opinion of me. And I would rather die than let them down.

—TEEN 16

DEAR TEEN: And three cheers right back to you. And a loud hurrah for your parents, too. Letters like yours brighten my day. It's good to hear from someone who chooses the high road and discovers it leads to happiness.

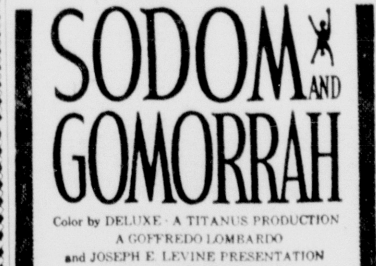

Are you going steady? Making marriage plans? If so, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "Before You Marry—Is It Love Or Sex?" enclosing with your request 20c in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Biggest "savings book" in the world

Keeping the Free World free is a mighty expensive proposition.

And our enemies are doing everything they can to make it so. They've said they expect to "bury us" economically.

They see us as soft, self-satisfied, lazy. They don't think we're prepared to make any sacrifices for freedom.

But there's a "special book" in the U.S. Treasury Department that says they're as wrong about that as they are about a lot of other things.

It's a symbolic "freedom book" which shows that tens of millions of American families have invested 46 billions of dollars in their country in the form of U.S. Savings Bonds. Dollars the government uses to keep our economy strong. To help keep the Free World free.

This is one way you can meet the challenge to Americans. And there's no need to feel funny about collecting good interest on Savings Bonds. The financial strength of your family is part of the strength of the nation.

So help yourself as you help your country, by regular purchase of U.S. Savings Bonds... through the Payroll Savings Plan where you work, or from any bank.

Poor Strategy For The Marshal

Less than two years ago, Marshal Tito refused to join the world's sincere neutrals in denouncing the Soviet Union for breaking the moratorium on nuclear testing in the atmosphere. Congress thereupon showed its displeasure by empowering President Kennedy to revoke Yugoslavia's most-favored-nation status, without which Yugoslav products would not be able to compete in the American marketplace.

In the interim, Marshal Tito has made strong entreaties to have Yugoslavia restored to good standing, even asking Secretary of State Rusk to try to get Congress to rescind its action. So far, the Senate Foreign Relations Committee headed by Fulbright has gone along and Congress reportedly was inclined to follow suit in dealing with next year's foreign aid allotments.

Congress, however, may have some second thoughts as a result of Marshal Tito's extravagant welcome to Premier Khrushchev. With a beneficence that may with reason be resented on Capitol Hill, Tito hailed his Soviet visitor for bringing about a nuclear test ban treaty.

Perhaps it hadn't occurred to him that if the Soviet Union had not broken the previous moratorium, there would have been no excuse for such a treaty.

In return for most-favored-nation treatment, the United States is justified in expecting Yugoslavia to aspire to independence. Marshal Tito fails to provide evidence of that when he plays Moscow's propaganda game.

These Days

By John Chamberlain

Harbinger Of "Thaw"?

Isaac Don Levine, who has written for many years on Russian affairs, returned from the Soviet Union the other day and, though he is a journalist interested in marketing his own product, submitted to a couple of interviews about his trip. He had much of a news-worthy nature to tell. But quite aside from the things he had to say, the fact that "they" — meaning the Kremlin and the Soviet Politburo — let Mr. Levine, who speaks a fluent Russian, walk for miles through the streets of cities like Kiev and Tiflis without being shadowed is a prime bit of evidence that the post-Stalin "thaw" in Russian life is real.

Letting Mr. Levine into Russia and giving him freedom to circulate is almost, but not quite, the equivalent of letting, say, a Whittaker Chambers make the same sort of trip. For it was Don Levine who, often laboring in great disrepute with pro-Soviet American "liberals," nursed the spark of opposition to everything connected with Stalin for a period that extended from the Nineteen Twenties up to the very recent past.

I first met Don in the early Thirties, when I, as a glib innocent, was inclined to think the "Russian experiment," as it was then called in "liberal" circles, might prove a practicable alternative to democratic capitalism. We both lived on Bank Street, in New York's Greenwich Village, in those days. I would run into Don on the street corner, and he would twit me with his amusing sarcasms. He told me he had turned against the Bolsheviks when they savagely suppressed the rebellion of the Kronstadt sailors at the very outset of the Revolution. The Communists, he said, had stolen money from the Sacco-Vanzetti defense fund. As for Stalin, Levine said he was a combination of old-fashioned Tammany Hall boss and Chicago gangster.

In the course of time Don Levine became a major part of my education. He persisted in making telling blows against the idea of a "popular front" with the Russians in the Thirties. It was Don Levine who took Whittaker Chambers to Adolf Berle in the State Department at the outset of World War II. Chambers then loath to stick the tag of "traitor" on anybody, told Berle about "Marxist study groups" inside the government which, in view of the existence of a Nazi-Soviet agreement, should be carefully watched. Berle, so the story goes, was pooh-poohed when he submitted the story of the Chambers interview to Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Don Levine was the man who, practically single-handedly, started conservative magazine journalism on its way to a comeback in the United States. With money put up by Alfred Kohlberg, an importer of goods from China who had been duped once too often by the believers in Mao Tse-Tung as a "Jeffersonian agrarian reformer," Don Levine started a little magazine called Plain Talk. He pulled an important news beat when he exposed the so-called "Amerasia case," which indicated that all was not well in State Department security circles. Plain Talk kept up a running fire of opposition to the Teheran and Yalta agreements with Stalin. It exposed Communist manipulation of the Institute of Pacific Relations. It could have been accused of "McCarthyism" — and this long before the country had heard of Joe McCarthy — save for the fact that no one could question the accuracy of even its smallest detail.

In time Plain Talk gave way to other conservative magazines, most of which used editors and writers who had worked with Don Levine. Don himself went off into book writing. He exposed the true identity of "Frank Jackson," the Stalinist Spaniard who assassinated Leon Trotsky. When I first knew Don, he was already the author of a non-admiring biography of Stalin. He brought this up to date not so long ago with another book that gave evidence for believing that Stalin, before the Bolshevik Revolution, had been a double agent, working for the Czar's secret police as well as for the Bolshevik Party.

This is the man whom Khrushchev recently let into Russia with carte blanche to look about him as he more or less pleased. Whether it is true, as Mr. Levine speculates, that the month of June, 1963, may mark a real turn for the better in East-West relations, Levine's own visit to Russia can be taken as an indication that Khrushchev's anti-Stalinism is real.

'SAC And Their Confounded Sonic Booms'

Will Government Pay Bill For 'March' Losses?

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — Millions of dollars will be lost to merchants of retail goods and to businesses of various kinds on August 28 in this city because of the fear of area residents to come to downtown Washington on that day during the "demonstration" which will bring from 100,000 to 250,000 person to the streets of the national capital. Who is to pay these losses? Why should innocent citizens be penalized?

The mayor of a city usually decides whether a permit to parade or demonstrate will interfere with a city's normal operations, and a permit is granted or refused on the basis of what the impact will be on the commerce of the community. This city has no mayor because the residents are not permitted to vote for their local government. A commission of three is appointed by the President to manage the affairs of the District of Columbia. So, for practical purposes, the President is virtually the mayor here. The responsibility, therefore, for the losses incurred by private citizens rests with the federal government.

Will Congress now pass a bill permitting all businesses to claim not just a deduction but a tax credit for the entire loss incurred? Most corporations pay a 52 cent tax rate, which means that the company itself bears 48 per cent of a loss. Why shouldn't the government take care of 100 per cent of the loss when the government is responsible entirely for the granting of an official permit which allows a "demonstration" to be held that frightens the populace and causes it to avoid the stores that day?

Many companies will find that their employees will be too scared to come to work. The leaders of the "demonstration" have been engaging in a kind of doubletalk. While promising that there will be no violence, they speak in terms that cause apprehension. The advertisement publicity, for instance, issued this week from the office of the "March on Washington," quotes A. Philip Randolph, director of the "March," as saying:

"Negroes will no longer submit to humiliation, even if it costs them their lives."

The people of the Washington area are, moreover, being told not to go downtown if they can possibly avoid it. Traffic conditions, particularly at the entrances to the city, will be difficult. Many employees who live in the suburbs have been asking their employers what they should do. Unquestionably, thousands will stay home. Who is to bear all this expense?

It will be argued that this "demonstration" is for a good cause. But the government provides that charitable contributions to worthy causes are deductible for income-tax purposes. No such provision, however, has been made to cover "contributions" to the demonstration made involuntarily by employees as well as employers. Since Congress is virtually the "board of alderman" for the District of Columbia, it is contended that Congress should take care of the losses incurred by innocent bystanders.

The government already is spending a good deal of money to provide extra police, to handle traffic and for other expenses incidental to the Washington "demonstration." This is being paid for by the taxpayers of the country. Some members of Congress are closing their offices for the day and giving their staff the day off, and it is being urged that this be done throughout the government, with employees given "administrative leave"—all at the taxpayers' expense. It would appear that the generosity of the taxpayers who are thus footing the bills might at least cover compensation to the citizens here who actually incur financial losses.

Whether the "demonstration" will be peaceful is anybody's guess. There are church organizations of white people in different parts of the country which are sending so many of their members by buses and special trains to participate that it looks as if the "demonstration" will be only partly composed of Negroes. The odds would seem to be in favor of its being a peaceful affair. But, as the time for the "march" approaches, the fears of local residents have by no means been dispelled.

No matter how peaceful it turns out to be, the "demonstration" will set a significant precedent. How can the District of Columbia government now refuse a permit to any organization, no matter how unpopular its cause may be, to carry on a "demonstration" involving 100,000 or more persons? The Constitution, of course, recognizes the "right of petition," but this can be exercised as effectively by 60,000 people seated in a football stadium, with a television broadcast of the speeches made there, as it can be by a street parade or gathering of mobs.

There is nothing in the Constitution which says that the "right of petition" includes the right to disturb somebody's business, even for one day. But there is a clause in the Constitution which says that no person "shall be deprived of life, liberty, or property, without due process of law; nor shall private property be taken for public use, without just compensation."

Snoring Doesn't Require Clear Conscience

By Theodore R. Van Dellen

the way, my husband is sleeping like an angel tonight and not a snore out of him."

Most people who snore are thoroughly relaxed and, in our health hint, we tried to stress the fact that a person with a clear conscience sleeps like a baby. Evil men who snore may not have a conscience, or, if they do, it is not bothering them. Your friend's husband dissolved his conscience in alcohol. There is nothing to match the roaring and vibrations that come from the nose and mouth of a person sleeping in a drunken stupor.

Another woman has one wish: "I'd like it to be that my children and grandchildren will not snore. Can the scientific doctors find a way to start off babies so they will not snore? I'm 67 years old and have snored since age 10."

This reader is thinking of others; she knows the snorer is not the real victim of this condition. Newborn babies snore occasionally because of mucus in the nose. This lasts a few days, disappears, and may begin again at age 4 or 5 if they have a cold or enlarged adenoids and tonsils. Removing the tonsils and adenoids often corrects the situation. In this respect your family doctor can help. But the remedy is temporary because many start again on reaching adulthood—why, we do not know.

POOR WRITER

K. S. writes: An 8-year-old boy in our family has poor coordination of his hands. His writing is bad and his work books are messy. He says writing makes his hand hurt. His teacher said he would outgrow this condition. Is there any thing we can do to help?

REPLY

The teacher probably is right. Do not make it an issue as more harm will come from giving him an inferiority complex than from illegible handwriting at age 8.

SUN INTOLERANCE

Mrs. P. B. writes: For 30 years I have suffered from sun poisoning during the summer months. Is there any way to prevent it?

REPLY

Stay out of the sun as much as possible and use some of the sun screening lotions or creams. Chloroquine internally also has been recommended.

EGGS NOT TABOO

M. D. writes: Is one egg a day harmful to arthritis of the knee?

REPLY

No, and there is no reason why a daily egg should harm any joint.

WOBBLY WALK

Mrs. F. writes: Why do I wobble when I walk?

REPLY

This is known as female diverting, unless you have a defect of the hip joint or one leg is longer than the other.

MATERNITY GIRDLE

REPLY

No, but wasn't it uncomfortable?

OMIT SLAW

A. W. writes: I had a bleeding ulcer that healed. Can I now eat cole slaw?

REPLY

Not if the lesion has just healed. A person who has had ulcer can do without such roughage because there always is the danger of recurrence.

Hollywood In-Law Peter Lawford Sometimes Embarrasses Kennedy

By Jack Anderson

the President again as they were disembarking.

"Where are you going to stay, Peter?" asked Kennedy.

"Where you stay," suggested Lawford.

"You're not staying with me," said the President bluntly.

Then over his shoulder, he added: "Let me know, and I'll call you."

"I won't hold my breath," said Lawford with a nervous laugh.

"No," agreed the President, "Don't."

Confessions Of A Killer

Racketeer Joseph Valachi's confessions must have jolted many lawmen who have refused to believe that the underworld is guided by a secret and sinister Sicilian society.

The skeptics in the International Association of Chiefs of Police, for instance, forced the organization to disband its organized crime committee two years ago. They pooh-poohed its chairman, Chief Edward J. Allen of Santa Ana, Calif., for insisting that crime was not only organized but largely controlled by the Sicilians.

While Valachi has revealed the inner workings of this dreaded society, he has shocked government attorneys even more with his grisly stories of gangland killings.

He has presented a picture of underworld executioners, some of them with more than 50 murders to their credit, who are as blasé as they are skilled at the trade of death. Valachi has told of his own role in at least a dozen slayings.

Animals In The Nude

Friends of Alan Abel, founder of the Society for Indecency to Naked Animals, claim he has played a gigantic joke upon the country.

He is preparing to confess in a magazine article, they say, that the whole idea started out as a happy hoax.

His disciples have picketed the White House, attempted to clothe the animals at the San Francisco Zoo, bombarded the society's New York headquarters with pictures of pets modestly clad.

One Santa Barbara, Calif., woman tried to donate $40,000 to the cause of clothing naked animals. But Abel rejected the offer, is careful not to accept contributions from the public.

A Broadway promoter and erstwhile fertilizer salesman, Abel

hired bit-actor Buck Henry to play the role of the Society's president, G. Clifford Prout. Abel accepted more modest billing for himself as Bruce Spencer, the Society's vice president.

Goldwater Guide

The professionals booming Sen. Barry Goldwater for President are secretly using the AFL-CIO handbook, "How To Win," as their political guide.

Convinced this is the best political manual ever written, F. Clifton White, the national draft-Goldwater director, appropriated $15 to buy three copies.

He was afraid to be seen at AFL-CIO headquarters, however, lest he lose his standing in the Goldwater movement. So he sent an office girl to make the purchase, cautioned her to give a phony name and office.

She identified herself at the AFL-CIO as "Jack Anderson's secretary," then delivered the three manuals to Goldwater headquarters.

JFK Holds Hands

Pictures of President Kennedy walking out of the hospital, holding his wife's hand, must have brought a sigh of relief from the ladies of the land.

Thousands had written to the White House expressing concern over the President's failure to show affection for his wife in public.

From the moment of his inauguration, they noted that the newly-sworn President strode off the platform without kissing Jackie. Other eyes later spotted that he sometimes strode ahead of his wife.

Their reunions at airports were also less romantic than fluttering females would have wished—a quick peck on the cheek, rather than a warm buss on the lips.

Of course, it is all easily explained.

Kissing in public? President Kennedy considers this bad form even for private citizens, certainly far below Presidential dignity. But those close enough have caught the warmth in his eyes, the quick surreptitious squeeze of hands when he greets his wife.

Walking in front of his wife? Protocol lays down that no one may walk ahead of the President in public, not even his wife. When told of the complaints, Kennedy cracked that Jackie simply would have to walk faster.

But all the explanations cannot match that one touching picture of Jack and Jackie walking hand-in-hand.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

By Jim Bishop

What about accidental war? Is it possible? It sure is. The odds in favor of accidental war increase by the square of the numbers of long range weapons in existence on both sides. The United States has about 30,000 atom and hydrogen bombs. The Russians, it is assumed, have a smaller number, although larger in size.

The novel, "Fail-Safe," written by Eugene Burdick and Harvey Wheeler, frightened hundreds of thousands of Americans. It purported to show that a U. S. bomber, aboard which a condenser malfunctioned, received positive orders to bomb the Soviet Union and led a flight of six planes to Russia. Two got through.

Moscow was bombed. The President of the United States, to placate the Kremlin and stave-off an all-out war, ordered a hydrogen bomb dropped on the city of New York. In my estimation, the premise is preposterous. No mechanical malfunction in a bomber could cause it to receive positive orders to attack.

In fact, Professor Sidney Hook has written a small book—more an argument than a book—called "The Fail-Safe Fallacy," in which he proves the astronomical odds against a Strategic Air Command plane getting the wrong orders. The whole concept of U. S. defense is based—not on striking the first blow—but the second. America must survive the first. The U. S. has ballistic missiles hidden in the wheat fields of Montana, in the polaris submarines cruising east of North Cape, aboard surface vessels, at Vandenberg, at Canaveral, Great Britain, Turkey; even in the Redstone defiles between the sheer mountains of the Italian Alps.

The secret war between the U. S. and Russia is (1) to build nuclear weapons and delivery systems; (2) to disperse them so that neither nation can knock the other out in a single heavy attack and (3) to break the other nation economically. All three are, in 1963, at stalemate. Nikita Khrushchev's treaty, abandoning surface and air tests of nuclear weapons, is a left-handed admission that he realizes that no one can win a nuclear war.

SAC's primary role is to keep B-52's and B-47's in the air at all times. Five years ago, the best it could do was 20 per cent. Today, an average of 35 per cent of SAC's big bombers are in the air, enroute to target cities in Asia, at all times. Thus, if the U. S. sustains a surprise attack, around 400 big bombers will escape it, and receive Fail-Safe orders to bomb Russia.

I was aboard the attack carrier Midway years ago when the first three nuclear bombs were placed in a heavily guarded room below decks. There are many more in each aircraft carrier now — enough, let us say, to load jet bombers for a strike from the 6th Fleet in the Mediterranean and the 7th in the Formosa Straits.

These weapons represent a risk. It must be taken. An insane crew of a Navy bomber, or on a SAC bomber, could conceivably take off with a hydrogen bomb or two and, without orders, head straight for the Soviet Union, and drop it. To achieve this unlikely state, the entire crew would have to go crazy at the same time.

This also applies to polaris subs. The firing of a hydrogen-equipped weapon will require more than one brain, more than one set of hands. In most cases, the situation is akin to the agreement with Great Britain: The U. S. controls the weapon, but it cannot be fired without the assent of the other party.

Still, the Pentagon is aware that more than 2,000 nuclear weapons are lying quietly in many parts of the world, awaiting the word. Each one has an arming device; each one is ready. Each one has a suicide mechanism built in, so that if it is fired by accident, it can be destroyed on purpose.

This too can fail, even though it works well at Cape Canaveral, where I. C. B. M's which climb off-course are destroyed in air. Our missiles are a delivery system; the war-head is attached only when a missile is packed in its permanent subterranean base.

The Russians have never told our diplomats what kind of safety devices they employ. By disposition, they are not prone to spend money on safety. It is possible that, if accidental war becomes a reality, it is more likely to start from Russia than from the U. S. A bomber, in mid-flight, can be called back. A missile has no brains. This, sometimes, is also true of the Russians.

Under the system of deceit and treachery practiced by nations today, it is almost impossible to achieve any nuclear disarmament. No system of inspection can probe all of the hiding places. Now the world has new nuclear powers: France today, China tomorrow.

By 1970, there will be more. Accidental war? The odds against it must be a million-to-one. Too short. Too short. Growing shorter every day.

Poor Strategy For The Marshal

Less than two years ago, Marshal Tito refused to join the world's sincere neutrals in denouncing the Soviet Union for breaking the moratorium on nuclear testing in the atmosphere. Congress thereupon showed its displeasure by empowering President Kennedy to revoke Yugoslavia's most-favored-nation status, without which Yugoslav products would not be able to compete in the American marketplace.

In the interim, Marshal Tito has made strong entreaties to have Yugoslavia restored to good standing, even asking Secretary of State Rusk to try to get Congress to rescind its action. So far, the Senate Foreign Relations Committee headed by Fulbright has gone along and Congress reportedly was inclined to follow suit in dealing with next year's foreign aid allotments.

Congress, however, may have some second thoughts as a result of Marshal Tito's extravagant welcome to Premier Khrushchev. With a beneficence that may with reason be resented on Capitol Hill, Tito hailed his Soviet visitor for bringing about a nuclear test ban treaty.

Perhaps it hadn't occurred to him that if the Soviet Union had not broken the previous moratorium, there would have been no excuse for such a treaty.

In return for most-favored-nation treatment, the United States is justified in expecting Yugoslavia to aspire to independence. Marshal Tito fails to provide evidence of that when he plays Moscow's propaganda game.

Harbinger Of "Thaw"?

Isaac Don Levine, who has written for many years on Russian affairs, returned from the Soviet Union the other day and, though he is a journalist interested in marketing his own product, submitted to a couple of interviews about his trip. He had much of a news-worthy nature to tell. But quite aside from the things he had to say, the fact that "they" — meaning the Kremlin and the Soviet Politburo — let Mr. Levine, who speaks a fluent Russian, walk for miles through the streets of cities like Kiev and Tiflis without being shadowed is a prime bit of evidence that the post-Stalin "thaw" in Russian life is real.

Letting Mr. Levine into Russia and giving him freedom to circulate is almost, but not quite, the equivalent of letting, say, a Whittaker Chambers make the same sort of trip. For it was Don Levine who, often laboring in great dispute with pro-Soviet American "liberals," nursed the spark of opposition to everything connected with Stalin for a period that extended from the Nineteen Twenties up to the very recent past.

I first met Don in the early Thirties, when I, as a glibbie innocent, was inclined to think the "Russian experiment," as it was then called in "liberal" circles, might prove a practicable alternative to democratic capitalism. We both lived on Bank Street, in New York's Greenwich Village, in those days. I would run into Don on the street corner, and he would twit me with his amusing sarcasms. He told me he had turned against the Bolsheviks when they savagely suppressed the rebellion of the Kronstadt sailors at the very outset of the Revolution. The Communists, he said, had stolen money from the Sacco-Vanzetti defense fund. As for Stalin, Levine said he was a combination of old-fashioned Tammany Hall boss and Chicago gangster.

In the course of time Don Levine became a major part of my education. He persisted in making telling blows against the idea of a "popular front" with the Russians in the Thirties. It was Don Levine who took Whittaker Chambers to Adolf Berle in the State Department at the outset of World War II. Chambers then loath to stick the tag of "traitor" on anybody, told Berle about "Marxist study groups" inside the government which, in view of the existence of a Nazi-Soviet agreement, should be carefully watched. Berle, so the story goes, was pooh-poohed when he submitted the gist of the Chambers interview to Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Don Levine was the man who, practically single-handedly, started conservative magazine journalism on its way to a comeback in the United States. With money put up by Alfred Kohlberg, an importer of goods from China who had been duped once too often by the believers in Mao Tse-tung as a "Jeffersonian agrarian reformer," Don Levine started a little magazine called Plain Talk. He pulled an important news beat when he exposed the so-called "Amerasia case," which indicated that all was not well in State Department security circles. Plain Talk kept up a running fire of opposition to the Teheran and Yalta agreements with Stalin. It exposed Communist manipulation of the Institute of Pacific Relations. It could have been accused of "McCarthyism" — and this long before the country had heard of Joe McCarthy — save for the fact that no one could question the accuracy of even its smallest detail.

In time Plain Talk gave way to other conservative magazines, most of which used editors and writers who had worked with Don Levine. Don himself went off into book writing. He exposed the true identity of "Frank Jackson," the Stalinist Spaniard who assassinated Leon Trotsky. When I first knew Don, he was already the author of a non-admiring biography of Stalin. He brought this up to date not so long ago with another book that gave evidence for believing that Stalin, before the Bolshevik Revolution, had been a double agent, working for the Czar's secret police as well as for the Bolshevik Party.

This is the man whom Khrushchev recently let into Russia with carte blanche to look about as he more or less pleased. Whether it is true, as Mr. Levine speculates, that the month of June, 1963, may mark a real turn for the better in East-West relations, Levine's own visit to Russia can be taken as an indication that Khrushchev's anti-Stalinism is real.

'SAC And Their Confounded Sonic Booms'

Will Government Pay Bill For 'March' Losses?

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — Millions of dollars will be lost to merchants of retail goods and to businesses of various kinds on August 28 in this city because of the fear of area residents to come to downtown Washington on that day during the "demonstration" which will bring from 100,000 to 250,000 person to the streets of the national capital. Who is to pay these losses? Why should innocent citizens be penalized?

The mayor of a city usually decides whether a permit to parade or demonstrate will interfere with a city's normal operations, and a permit is granted or refused on the basis of what the impact will be on the commerce of the community. This city has no mayor because the residents are not permitted to vote for their local government. A commission of three is appointed by the President to manage the affairs of the District of Columbia. So, for practical purposes, the President is virtually the mayor here. The responsibility, therefore, for the losses incurred by private citizens rests with the federal government.

Will Congress now pass a bill permitting all businesses to claim not just a deduction but a tax credit for the entire loss incurred? Most corporations pay a 32 cent tax rate, which means that the company itself bears 48 per cent of a loss. Why shouldn't the government take care of 100 per cent of the loss when the government is responsible entirely for the granting of an official permit which allows a "demonstration" to be held that frightens the populace and causes it to avoid the stores that day?

Many companies will find that their employees will be too scared to come to work. The leaders of the "demonstration" have been engaging in a kind of doubletalk. While promising that there will be no violence, they speak in terms that cause apprehension. The advertisement publicized, for instance, issued this week from the office of the "March on Washington," quotes A. Phillip Randolph, director of the "March," as saying:

"Negroes will no longer submit to humiliation, even if it costs them their lives."

The people of the Washington area are, moreover, being told not to go downtown if they can possibly avoid it. Traffic conditions, particularly at the entrances to the city, will be difficult. Many employees who live in the suburbs have been asking their employers what they should do. Unquestionably, thousands will stay home. Who is to bear all this expense?

It will be argued that this "demonstration" is for a good cause. But the government provides that charitable contributions to worthy causes are deductible for income-tax purposes. No such provision, however, has been made to cover "contributions" to the demonstration made involuntarily by employees as well as employers. Since Congress is virtually the "board of aldermen" for the District of Columbia, it is contended that Congress should take care of the losses incurred by innocent bystanders.

The government already is spending a good deal of money to provide extra police, to handle traffic and for other expenses incidental to the Washington "demonstration." This is being paid for by the taxpayers of the country. Some members of Congress are closing their offices for the day and giving their staff the TEST BAN — The Senate Democratic leadership has informed the White House that it looks like clear sailing for the necessary two-thirds majority approval of the test ban treaty with Russia.

When the treaty draft was completed in Moscow several weeks ago, some Senate Republican leaders were talking pretty tough about having "doubts" of Russia's intentions in entering into the proposal to ban atom bomb testing in outer space, the atmosphere and under water.

But since the treaty has been formally placed before the Senate by President Kennedy and the hearings are underway, seasoned congressional observers sense a marked change in the Republican attitude.

They believe that this change was brought about by public reaction, which was preponderantly favorable. The GOP is also aware that even without public favor, if they contributed to rejection of the treaty in the Senate, the sharp setback to prospective improvement in international relations could be boomerang.

Most Republican senators still remember the isolation tag hung on a segment of their party just prior to the outbreak of World War II and the superhuman job Sen. Arthur Vandenberg had to do to erase that politically harmful image.

They are hesitant to risk that kind of political onus again, and probably would do so only if the temptations of immediate political success were exceedingly promising.

Snoring Doesn't Require Clear Conscience

By Theodore R. Van Dellen

Several months ago we had a health hint—"It takes a clear conscience to snore at night." A Watervliet, N. Y., woman came back at me with: "I wish I had a dollar for every miserable character who is snoring tonight. A dear friend had a husband who started snoring the minute he hit the pillow and he was the biggest louse I ever met (God rest his soul). He abused his wife, drank himself silly, and chased women."

"Snoring has nothing to do with one's conscience. So I say to you that bad people as well as good people snore and sleep well. By the way, my husband is sleeping like an angel tonight and not a snore out of him."

Most people who snore are thoroughly relaxed and, in our health hint, we tried to stress the fact that a person with a clear conscience sleeps like a baby. Evil men who snore may not have a conscience, or, if they do, it is not bothering them. Your friend's husband dissolved his conscience in alcohol. There is nothing to match the roaring and vibrations that come from the nose and mouth of a person sleeping in a drunken stupor.

Another woman has one wish: "I'd like it to be that my children and grandchildren will not snore. Can the scientific doctors find a way to start off babies so they will not snore? I'm 67 years old and have snored since age 10."

This reader is thinking of others; she knows the snorer is not the real victim of this condition. Newborn babies snore occasionally because of mucus in the nose. This lasts a few days, disappears, and may begin again at age 4 or 5 if they have a cold or enlarged adenoids and tonsils. Removing the tonsils and adenoids often corrects the situation. In this respect your family doctor can help. But the remedy is temporary because many start again on reaching adulthood—why, we do not know.

TOMORROW: Colon outpocketings.

POOR WRITER

K. S. writes: An 8-year-old boy in our family has poor coordination of his hands. His writing is bad and his work books are messy. He says writing makes his hand hurt. His teacher said he would outgrow this condition. Is there anything we can do to help?

REPLY

The teacher probably is right. Do not make it an issue as more harm will come from giving him an inferiority complex than from illegible handwriting at age 8.

SUN INTOLERANCE

Mrs. P. B. writes: For 30 years I have suffered from sun poisoning during the summer months. Is there any way to prevent it?

Hollywood In-Law Peter Lawford Sometimes Embarrasses Kennedy

By Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON—Not long ago, Caroline Kennedy burst into her father's White House office and announced she had learned a new poem.

"Roses are red, violets are blue, sugar is sweet, I love you," she recited.

The President beamed; Caroline quizzed. Then she offered to recite another poem that cousin Chris Lawford had taught her.

"There was a little girl, who had a little curl; she slipped on the grass, and fell on her—!" Caroline chirped, ending with a naughty word.

The President fixed her with a scowl that sent her scampering. Then he grabbed the telephone, called brother-in-law Peter Lawford, and scolded him for permitting his son to teach Caroline off-color poems.

This wasn't the first time JFK had shown annoyance with his Hollywood brother-in-law.

Once Lawford caught a ride in the Presidential plane to Palm Beach, Fla. He sat up front with the small coterie around the President until someone mentioned that a Kennedy friend, William Thompson, was aboard.

The President sent a sergeant to fetch Thompson, but there was no vacant seat. With a stern look at Lawford, JFK said: "Peter, disappear!"

The actor moved meekly to the back of the plane, later saw the President again as they were disembarking.

"Where are you going to stay, Peter?" asked Kennedy.

"Where you stay," suggested Lawford.

"You're not staying with me," said the President brittlely.

Then over his shoulder, he added: "Let me know, and I'll call you."

"I won't hold my breath," said Lawford with a nervous laugh.

"No," agreed the President. "Don't."

Confessions Of A Killer

Racketeer Joseph Valachi's confessions must have jolted many lawmen who have refused to believe that the underworld is guided by a secret and sinister Sicilian society.

The skeptics in the International Association of Chiefs of Police, for instance, forced the organization to disband its organized crime committee two years ago. They pooh-poohed its chairman, Chief Edward J. Allen of Santa Ana, Calif., for insisting that crime was not only organized but largely controlled by the Sicilians.

While Valachi has revealed the inner workings of this dreaded society, he has shocked government attorneys even more with his grisly stories of gangland killings.

He has presented a picture of underworld executioners, some of them with more than 50 murders to their credit, who are as blasé as they are skilled at the trade of death. Valachi has told of his own role in at least a dozen slayings.

Animals In The Nude

Friends of Alan Abel, founder of the Society for Indecency to Naked Animals, claim he has played a gigantic joke upon the country.

He is preparing to confess in a magazine article, they say, that the whole idea started out as a happy hoax.

His disciples have picketed the White House, attempted to clothe the animals at the San Francisco Zoo, bombarded the society's New York headquarters with pictures of pets modestly clad.

One Santa Barbara, Calif., woman tried to donate $40,000 to the cause of clothing naked animals. But Abel rejected the offer, is careful not to accept contributions from the public.

A Broadway promoter and erstwhile fertilizer salesman, Abel

hired bit-actor Buck Henry to play the role of the Society's president, G. Clifford Prout. Abel accepted more modest billing for himself as Bruce Spencer, the Society's vice president.

Goldwater Guide

The professionals booming Sen. Barry Goldwater for President are secretly using the AFL-CIO handbook, "How To Win," as their political guide.

Convinced this is the best political manual ever written, F. Clifton White, the national draft-Goldwater director, appropriated $15 to buy three copies.

He was afraid to be seen at AFL-CIO headquarters, however, lest he lose his standing in the Goldwater movement. So he sent an office girl to make the purchase, cautioned her to give a phony name and office.

She identified herself at the AFL-CIO as "Jack Anderson's secretary," then delivered the three manuals to Goldwater headquarters.

JFK Holds Hands

Pictures of President Kennedy walking out of the hospital, holding his wife's hand, must have brought a sigh of relief from the ladies of the land.

Thousands had written to the White House expressing concern over the President's failure to show affection for his wife in public.

From the moment of his inauguration, they noted that the newly-sworn President strode off the platform without kissing Jackie. Other eyes later spotted that he sometimes strode ahead of his wife.

Their reunions at airports were also less romantic than fluttering females would have wished—a quick peck on the cheek, rather than a warm buss on the lips.

Of course, it is all easily explained.

Kissing in public? President Kennedy considers this bad form even for private citizens, certainly far below Presidential dignity. But those close enough have caught the warmth in his eyes, the quick surreptitious squeeze of hands when he greets his wife.

Walking in front of his wife? Protocol lays down that no one may walk ahead of the President in public, not even his wife. When told of the complaints, Kennedy cracked that Jackie simply would have to walk faster.

But all the explanations cannot match that one touching picture of Jack and Jackie walking hand-in-hand.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

By Jim Bishop

What about accidental war? Is it possible? It sure is. The odds in favor of accidental war increase by the square of the numbers of long range weapons in existence on both sides. The United States has about 30,000 atom and hydrogen bombs. The Russians, it is assumed, have a smaller number, although larger in size.

The novel, "Fail-Safe," written by Eugene Burdick and Harvey Wheeler, frightened hundreds of thousands of Americans. It purported to show that a U. S. bomber, aboard which a condenser malfunctioned, received positive orders to bomb the Soviet Union and led a flight of six planes to Russia. Two got through.

Moscow was bombed. The President of the United States, to placate the Kremlin and stave off an all-out war, ordered a hydrogen bomb dropped on the city of New York. In my estimation, the premise is preposterous. No mechanical malfunction in a bomber could cause it to receive positive orders to attack.

GOREN ON BRIDGE

BY CHARLES H. GOREN

(c 1963; By The Chicago Tribune)

ANSWERS TO BRIDGE QUIZ

Q. 1—As South you hold:

♠ QJ 107 105 ♠ AK 1043

The bidding has proceeded:

South West North East

1 ♠ Pass 1 ♥ Pass

What do you bid now?

A—One spade. The hand is too strong for a rebid of one no trump, but not strong enough for a jump to two no trump. A bid of one spade is therefore suggested as a temporary measure. If partner passes, it is because he has a very weak hand.

Q. 2—As South you hold:

♠ QJ 10753 ♠ K6 ♠ K742 ♠ Q

The bidding has proceeded:

South West North East

Pass 1 ♠ 1 ♥ Pass

1 ♠ Pass 1 NT Pass

What do you bid now?

A—Partner's one no trump bid is a form of progressive action and not a rescue. Inasmuch as you have great playing strength, a bid of three spades is recommended. This is not forcing but strongly urges partner to continue.

Q. 3—As South you hold:

♠ AKQJ 10742 ♠ 5 ♠ 72 ♠ 83

The bidding has proceeded:

West North East South

2 ♠ 4 ♥ Pass 5 ♠

Pass 6 ♥ Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A—What is the purpose of North's six club bid? He is stating: "Partner, I am forcing you automatically to bid a slam. My reason for telling you I have the club control is that it may enable me to bid a grand slam." Since partner has no support for spades, he must have the other three aces to justify his request that we bid a grand slam and the proper call is seven spades.

Q. 4—As South you hold:

♠ 8 ♠ AK 10853 ♠ AK 10742

The bidding has proceeded:

South West North East

1 ♠ 4 ♥ 1 ♠ 3 ♥

4 ♠ 4 ♥ 1 ♠ Double ?

What do you bid now?

A—Your partner must realize that you have great length in diamonds and clubs and are, therefore, apt to be short in spades. His four spade bid, therefore, must have been based on a strong suit. East is obviously counting on some heart tricks and will be disappointed. The proper procedure is to redouble. A rescue to five of a minor suit would be a blatant insult to your partner.

Q. 5—Both vulnerable and as South you hold:

♠ 102 ♠ 95 ♠ Q9 ♠ KQJ9873

The bidding has proceeded:

West North East South

3 ♠ Double Pass ?

What is your response?

A—Four clubs. On the surface this may appear inadequate, because four clubs is only a forced bid and could show considerably less in trick taking values. However, a bid of five clubs would be too drastic in view of your doubting in all three suits.

Q. 6—Both vulnerable and as South you hold:

♠ A 1084 ♠ AJ 83 ♠ K ♠ A 1063

The bidding has proceeded:

East South West North

Pass 1 ♠ 1 ♥ Pass 2 ♠

2 ♥ Double Pass 2 ♠

Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A—Four spades. Partner's bid has shown that he has a lack of high cards. This became evident when he refused to stand for the double. However, his distribution must be very favorable and you ought to be able to hold your losers to three.

Q. 7—As South you hold:

♠ 6 ♠ AK 1084 ♠ 1063 ♠ AQ 95

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South West

1 ♠ Pass 1 ♥ Pass

1 ♠ Pass 2 NT Pass

4 ♥ Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A—Six hearts. Partner has opened the bidding in hearts. Since you have better than an opening bid, there is enough material for a slam, and you should up and bid it.

Q. 8—As South you hold:

♠ 75 ♠ K98 ♠ KQJ 109 ♠ KJ 9

The bidding has proceeded:

South West North East

1 ♠ Pass 1 ♥ Pass

Pass 2 ♠ 1 ♠

What do you bid now?

A—Three hearts. It is true that you opened a minimum hand, but two rounds of bidding have transformed it. Your splendid fit in partner's two suits makes it possible to suppose that you are safe for nine tricks.

Dodgers Top Milwaukee, 2-1, Boost Lead; Giants, Cardinals Lose

Doug Camilli's Single In 9th Defeats Braves

Miller Is Victor, Los Angeles 6 1/2 Games Ahead In NL

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Doug Camilli's bases-loaded single broke up the game in the ninth inning and brought the Los Angeles Dodgers a 2-1 victory over the Milwaukee Braves Sunday.

The victory put the front-running Dodgers 6 1/2 games ahead of St. Louis and San Francisco in the National League race. Both the Cards and the Giants lost.

Lee Walls led off the Dodgers' ninth with a single off Bob Shaw and after Ron Fairly's single, Willie Davis was intentionally walked before Camilli's winning hit.

Miller, who pitched only a third of an inning, picked up his ninth victory in 17 decisions. Shaw, who pitched two innings in relief of Bob Sadowski, suffered his 10th loss against five victories.

The Dodgers had scored only one run in their last 23 innings going into the seventh. Then, with one away, Frank Howard lined a double to left and scored when Willie Davis bounced a double past third.

Mt. Savage And Frostburg Drop Final Pen-Mar Tilts

Cumberland Wins, Playoff Contests Start Next Sunday

Lonaconing knocked off pennant-winning Mt. Savage, 5-1, and Hyndman spilled Frostburg's second place Merchants to the tune of 8-6 yesterday in the final games of the regular season on the Pen-Mar Baseball League.

Cumberland concluded its 30-game schedule with an 8-4 victory over the Barrelville Old Exports on the latter's field by the score of 8-4.

Grover Fazenbaker fired a 4-hitter and struck out six in turning back Mt. Savage. It was the Lonaconing southpaw's 7th win against six losses. Mt. Savage won the season series, four games to two.

Coney scored three runs in the third on singles by Cokie Robertson, George Lauder and Don Brad-

Frank Robinson Hits Grand Slam To Sink Giants

Belt Comes In 8th Giving Cincinnati Reds 8-7 Triumph

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Frank Robinson belted a two-out grand slam home run in the eighth inning Sunday to give Cincinnati a come-from-behind 8-7 victory over the San Francisco Giants.

Willie Mays doubled two runs home in the ninth inning for the Giants but the rally fell short.

The Giants led 5-1 after three innings but the Reds tallied three runs in the sixth to set the stage for Robinson's belt off reliever Gaylord Perry.

The loss broke a three-game Giants winning streak and dropped them 6 1/2 games behind league-leading Los Angeles.

Perry, who throttled the Reds' rally in the sixth, gave up a pair of one-out singles in the eighth. Then, with two out, he walked Vada Pinson on a 3-2 pitch. Robinson's 19th home run easily cleared the left field fence.

Joey Jay retired six straight batters in the sixth and seventh to win his sixth game against 16 losses. Perry is 1-5.

Cincinnati's 8-7 victory over the San Francisco Giants was the Reds' 11th win in 12 games.

Tigers Win Two From Athletics

DETROIT (AP) — The surging Detroit Tigers, powered by home runs, completed a sweep of a five-game series Sunday by crushing the Kansas City Athletics 11-5 and 4-3 in a doubleheader.

Rocky Colavito, Norm Cash and Al Kaline cracked homers in the opener and Dick McAuliffe snapped a 1-1 tie with a three-run drive in the sixth inning of the second game.

The two victories moved the Tigers into sixth place in the American League. Detroit, climbing out of a long stretch in ninth, has won eight of its last nine games and 15 of its last 21.

Jim Bunning earned his 10th victory in the nightcap, with last-inning relief from Fred Gladding.

Terry Fox, third of four Detroit pitchers, was the first-game winner with five innings of relief work.

Pascual Beats Birds, 5-3, Twins Grab Second Place

Minnesota Scores Two Runs In 10th, Trims Stu Miller

BALTIMORE (AP) — Camilo Pascual snuffed out two bases-loaded Baltimore threats in the ninth inning Sunday and won the game 5-3 in the 10th as the Minnesota Twins rallied for two runs off relief pitcher Stu Miller.

Pascual's 17th victory moved the Twins into sole possession of second place in the American League.

Vic Power opened the Minnesota attack with a run-producing single. The other two Orioles runs in the second were unearned because of a throwing error by Twins' shortstop Zoilo Versalles.

Orsino had tied the score in the seventh with a run-producing single. The other two Orioles runs in the second were unearned because of a throwing error by Twins' shortstop Zoilo Versalles.

Houston Colts Jolt St. Louis' Pennant Hopes

Umbricht's Stellar Relief Twirling Features 3-1 Win

HOUSTON (AP) — Jim Umbricht's brilliant relief pitching led the Houston Colts as they dealt a stiff blow to St. Louis' National League pennant hopes Sunday by beating the Cardinals for the second straight time, 3-1.

The loss dropped the Cards 6 1/2 games behind the front-running Los Angeles Dodgers, who beat Milwaukee 2-1.

Umbricht replaced 19-year-old rookie Chris Zachary with one run, men on second and third with one out in the fifth inning, stopped that threat cold and held the Cards to one harmless single the rest of the way.

The Colts scored their three runs, all unearned, against Lew Burdette in the third inning with the aid of two St. Louis errors.

Bob Lillis led off the inning with a double, took third on Burdette's bobble of Zachary's sacrifice bunt, and scored when hit by catcher Carl Sawatski had throw in a rundown. Sacrifice flies by Pete Runnels and Jim Wynn brought in the other two runs.

The loss dropped the Cards 6 1/2 games behind the front-running Los Angeles Dodgers, who beat Milwaukee 2-1.

Umbricht replaced 19-year-old rookie Chris Zachary with one run, men on second and third with one out in the fifth inning, stopped that threat cold and held the Cards to one harmless single the rest of the way.

The Colts scored their three runs, all unearned, against Lew Burdette in the third inning with the aid of two St. Louis errors.

Bob Lillis led off the inning with a double, took third on Burdette's bobble of Zachary's sacrifice bunt, and scored when hit by catcher Carl Sawatski had throw in a rundown. Sacrifice flies by Pete Runnels and Jim Wynn brought in the other two runs.

Victor Grabs $9,000 Purse With Card 276

Palmer Runner-up, Becomes First To Win Over $100,000

By JOE MOOSHIL
Associated Press Sports Writer
AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Casual Johnny Pott hurled back Arnold Palmer's challenge, despite a double bogey 6 Sunday and captured the $50,000 American Golf Classic by four strokes with a score of 276.

Pott, taking down the top prize of $9,000 and scoring his first tournament victory of the year, shot a 35-35—70 final round and tied the Firestone Club course record for four rounds set by Palmer last year.

Palmer, who had shaved five strokes from Pott's lead with a 66 Saturday, threatened when he pulled into a tie on the first hole but quickly fell behind.

The 27-year-old Pott scored three birdies before the near-drastrous double bogey on the ninth hole. Then he steadily pulled away.

Palmer took down second place money of $4,600 to become the first golfer in history to go over the $100,000 mark in one year with a total of $101,555 in official earnings.

He finished with a 37-36—73 for a 280.

Pott started in a tie for the lead Thursday with an opening round 67 and stayed in front the rest of the way, boosting his earnings to $23,115. It was Pott's fourth victory in seven years on the tournament trail and his first since the Waco Turner Tournament at Burneyville, Okla., in 1962.

U.S. Open champion Julius Boros finished third with 37-34—71 and a 281 total for $3,000, one stroke ahead of Dave Hill, who shot one of three sub-par rounds for the day with a 34-35—69 and a 282 for $2,600.

Jack Nicklaus, Masters and PGA champion, fired a final round of 35-37—72 for 283 and tied for fifth with British Open champion Bob Charles, who had a closing round 37-34—71. Each collected $2,200.

Kathy Whitworth Takes Utah Open

OGDEN, Utah (UPI)—Talented Kathy Whitworth, scoring birdies on four of the first nine holes and playing steady golf the rest of the way, won the Utah Women's Open golf crown Sunday by five strokes with a 54-hole total of 214.

The powerful hitting Jal, N.M., competitor fired an even par 71 in the final round to defeat defending champion Mickey Wright of Dallas, Tex. Miss Wright, who sought her 10th tournament win of the year, soared to a 77 to finish second with a 219.

It was Miss Whitworth's fourth win this year and earned her first place money of $1,300. Miss Wright won $1,000.

Jim Seese, Sports Car Driver, Killed In Franklin Race

FRANKLIN, Pa. (UPI)—Sports car driver Jim Seese, 36, Akron, Ohio, was killed at the Tri-City Speedway near here Saturday night when his auto went out of control, roared into a pit area and flipped over.

Seese was dead on arrival at Franklin General Hospital. Officials said the accident occurred during the fourth of an eight-lap race.

The remaining races were suspended.

Ralston, McKinley Win Over Mexicans In Doubles Finale

BROOKLINE, Mass. (AP)—Bouncing Chuck McKinley and temperamental Dennis Ralston outlasted their recent Davis Cup opponents, Mexico's Rafael Osuna and Antonio Palafox, 9-7, 4-6, 5-7, 11-9 Sunday and won the Men's National Doubles Championship at Longwood Cricket Club.

Australians Margaret Smith and Robyn Ebbern scored an upset in the women's division, beating the double and Donn Cledenon's in-top-seeded defending champions, field grounder made it 2-0 in the Darlene Hard of Los Angeles and Maria Bueno of Brazil 4-6, 10-8, 6-3.

It was the second time that McKinley and Ralston had won the national title at the expense of the Mexicans, and improved the U.S. Davis Cup outlook.

They beat the Mexicans for the national title in 1961, lost to them in the finals last year and also bowed to the Mexicans in the 1962 Davis Cup American Zone play-offs.

Their victory over the Osuna-Palafox duo, the Wimbledon champions, was the turning point in the recent American Zone Davis Cup semifinals in Los Angeles, won by the Americans.

Keyser Netmen Lose At Uniontown, 5-4

Keyser dropped its final match of the season in the Tri-State Tennis League to Uniontown yesterday on the Pennsylvania's courts by the score of 5-4.

The West Virginians, however, wound up the season in first place with a 3-1 record, Uniontown was second with 2-2 and Cumberland last with 1-3.

Results:

Singles: Jack Dorsey, Keyser, beat Jack Trump, 6-3, 7-5. Glenn Workman, Keyser, lost to Allen Welch, 3-6, 6-4. John Fox, Keyser, beat Cliff Pelletti, 6-3, 6-3. Wesley Neville, Keyser, lost to Easton, 3-6, 6-2, 4-6. Harley Rotruck, Keyser, lost to Jim Moss, 6-3, 6-4. Robert Purinton, Keyser, beat Bob Evans, 6-1, 2-6, 6-3.

DOUBLES: Dorsey and Fox, Keyser, beat Trump and Bess, 2-6, 6-2, 6-2. Workman and Neville, Keyser, lost to Welch and Easton, 3-7, 4-6. Rotruck and Purinton, Keyser, lost to Pelletti and Moss, 2-6, 2-6.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Back In Business

It's a time of serious self-evaluation — when the woman who has stayed at home with her family for years faces the prospect of entering the business world again. Does she have what it takes to make a success of her new career?

If you're like most women at this point in their lives, you tend to underestimate yourself. You may not realize how important to your future is the kind of person you've become during those stay-at-home years. But ask yourself these questions — they may prove you have more to offer than you think.

Have you worked on group projects? Fund raising for a good cause counts, and so does campaigning for civic improvement, or helping to put over community school, club or church activities and entertainments.

Senator's Osteen Tames Angels, 4-1

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Dick Phillips and Jim King hit homers Sunday to propel the Washington Senators to a 4-1 victory over the Los Angeles Angels. Phillips' two-run blow in the fifth broke a 1-1 tie and came off loser Dan Osinski after Don Blasingame had collected his third single of the day. King hammered his 22nd homer of the year in the eighth.

Los Angeles, which had scored 27 runs and 35 hits in the first two games of the series, was limited to eight scattered hits by Osteen, who won his seventh game against 10 losses.

Has your work on projects been consistent? Did you stay with it to the end, or take part year after year when the time came?

Did you make new friends along the way while you kept your old friends?

Do you keep up with the news — word as well as local — and with developments in the arts and sciences? Have you taken up a new hobby recently?

Are you interested in new clothes and beauty methods? Why should "yes" answers to these questions justify a certain confidence in job hunting? First of all employers look for those who get along well with others. Many workers are fired because they can't do just this.

You've learned much when you have learned how to adjust to group effort by being cooperative, by making friends and keeping them.

Then employers are most interested in those who know how to take responsibility and are persistent, which you proved by shouldering duties repeatedly whether or not for reward. Alertness is equally important to employers — if you are open-minded, you are on the way to learning the skills that are valuable to them.

And your interest in improving yourself points toward your being the attractive person who will appeal to them enough to hire.

Curving Room Takes Kelly Opener, 10-9

Curving Room rallied for four runs to score a come-from-behind 10-9 victory over 51 A. Second Shift, yesterday at Stitches Field in the opening game of their best-of-three semi-final series in the Kelly-Springfield Softball League.

Trailing 9-7 in the 9th, Hyndman tied the score on a two-run single by "Pep" May and relief pitcher Joe Raygor won his own game by driving May home with a single.

Wayne Holly with a double and two singles and George Barb and Joe McGowan with three singles each paced the Curving Room's 13-hit attack. Bill Hook belted a round-tripper for the winners.

Kenny Lough and Jim Shank shared four of the seven hits credited to 51 A. Second Shift.

Receiving and 51 A. Third Shift, open their best-of-three series today at 6 p. m., at East Side Field.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

AXYDLBAAXR
LONGFELLOW

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters are apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

In memory of Mary Elizabeth Kamaul
who passed away 4 years ago today,
August 26, 1959.
You are gone but not forgotten.
Oh, what I would give to hold your hand once more.
Which meant so much to me,
And to see your sweet face
and happy smiles.

In Memoriam

In memory of Mary Elizabeth Kamau
who passed away 4 years ago today,
August 26, 1959.
Dear Lady,
You are gone but not forgotten.
Oh, what I would give to hold you and once more
Which meant so much to me,
And to see your sweet face
and happy smiles.
Sadly missed by Husband and Son

Everyone's talking... about the NU-WOOD way to remodel with the SUSPENDED CEILING SYSTEM

THIS UNIQUE SYSTEM used by architects and decorators is now available for home remodeling. A lightweight grid system is suspended from the ceiling. These grids form 2' x 2' or 2' x 4' openings. . . and you simply lay-in full-sized Nu-Wood acoustical ceiling panels. No glue, nails, or staples required. Where light is desired, substitute translucent panels and install fluorescent tubes above.

BEST OF ALL these Nu-Wood ceiling panels lift up easily for access to wiring, pipes, and heating ducts. No need to tear down your ceiling when trouble occurs.

Two Killed In Collision On Rt. 220

Man, Woman Die;
Father, Two-Week
Infant Injured

A Cumberland area man and a New Jersey woman who gave birth to a daughter two weeks ago in Bedford were killed in a head-on collision late Saturday night south of Centerville on U. S. Route 220.

Dead are Irvin Lehr Elliott, 40, RD 3, Cumberland, an employee of the Potomac Edison Company here, and Mrs. Mildred S. McConnell, 22, formerly of Newton, N. J., who resided at 577 Pitt Street, Bedford, with her husband since August 10.

Injured in the wreck were the husband, Albert McConnell, 25, and the infant, Emma Ethel McConnell. Both were taken to Sacred Heart Hospital, where his condition is reported "serious" and the young daughter's as "fair."

According to State Police at Bedford, the accident occurred at 10:58 p.m. Saturday when the southbound car driven by Elliott crossed into the northbound lane, striking the McConnell vehicle head-on one-mile south of Koon Dam Road and demolishing both vehicles.

Elliott is reported to have died as a result of a crushed chest, fractured skull and possible broken neck. Mrs. McConnell suffered a crushed chest and fractured skull.

Hospital attaches list Mr. McConnell's injuries as a severe laceration of the chin and right knee and a fractured right leg. The infant suffered several bruises.

Mr. Elliott was born in Bedford Valley and was the son of William R. Elliott, of here, and Ruth (Zembower) Elliott, Bedford Valley.

He was a member of Centerville Methodist Church and was an Army veteran of World War II. He was a member of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, Henry Hart Post No. 1411, and of the Fraternal Order of Eagles, Aerie 245.

Besides his parents, he is survived by his wife, Emma Jean (Valentine) Elliott, and a son, Harold William, at home; and a sister, Mrs. Harold Welch, Bedford Valley.

The body is at the Silcox Funeral Residence where friends will be received today and tomorrow.

At noon Wednesday the body will be taken to Centerville Methodist Church for a service at 2 p.m. to be conducted by Rev. John Stevenson and Rev. Paul R. O'Brien.

Burial will be in Centerville Fellowship Cemetery.

Social Sciences Division Head Named at FSC

Dr. Norman Livergood has been appointed chairman of the social sciences division at Frostburg State College, according to R. Bowen Hardesty, president.

This is the final major appointment to be made in the reorganization of the college, Mr. Hardesty said. This division includes the departments of history, geography and social sciences, related.

Dr. Livergood is a native of Kansas and received his early schooling in Oklahoma. He received his bachelor of arts degree from Phillips University, Enid, Okla., with major in philosophy; a bachelor of divinity degree from Yale University Divinity School in 1958; his master of arts degree in political philosophy from Yale in 1959, his thesis being "Theory of the State in Marx" and in 1962 his doctor of philosophy also from Yale University in social philosophy. His dissertation was entitled "The principle of activity in Karl Marx's Philosophy".

Dr. Livergood has been professor of philosophy at St. Lawrence University and at the time of employment at Frostburg State was professor of philosophy and acting chairman of the department of philosophy at Ohio Wesleyan University.

Active in research, Dr. Livergood has written a book "Reasoning." This book relates to reflective thinking and is college and general reading.

Dr. Livergood is active in varsity basketball, golf, tennis and badminton. He is a member of the Unitarian Church and of the Philosophical Association. He is married to the former Miss Kathryn Stella and they have two children, Rebecca and Regan. They will reside at 90½ Brad dock Street, Frostburg.

Conservation Practices

At right is William Roche, Star Route, Flintstone, who has found a profitable use for water on his property — frog farming. Here he holds a pair of frogs used as breeders in his pond.

633 Landowners Find Conservation Profitable

By NAOMI F. RICE
News Staff Writer

Some 633 farmers and landowners in Allegany County have established one or more conservation practices on their land in cooperation with the Soil Conservation Service District here.

The 633 farmers, known as co-operators, represent 111,288 acres of land. The co-operators are approved by the Soil Conservation District established here in 1942 which works on a memorandum of understanding with the U. S. Soil Conservation Service.

The local SCS staff works with the farmers at their request. After a cooperator has prepared a basic plan the SCS aids with advice and tools in making the plan workable.

Some of the main conservation practices used by area co-operators include contour strip cropping and cultivation, crop rotation, open drainage ditches, tile drain systems, diversion terraces, farm ponds and woodland and wildlife improvement practices.

New "Farming" Venture

One county farmer, William Roche, has begun a new venture in farming, frog raising. This type of farming establishes another use for water and is a hobby as well as a business venture.

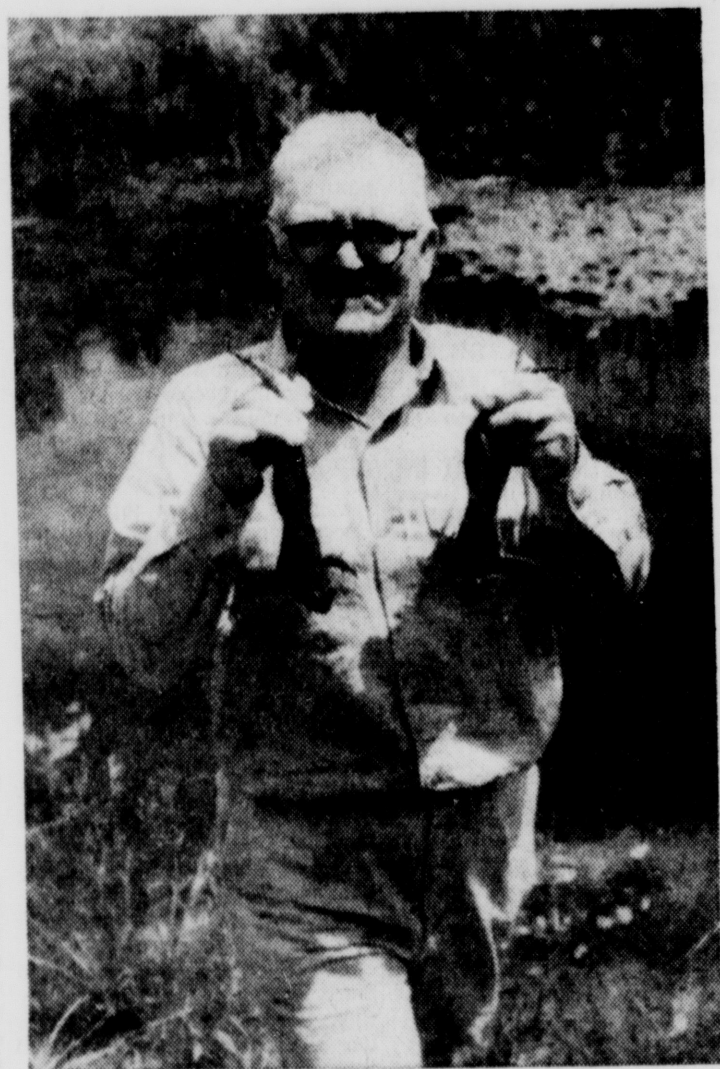

Another phase of conservation is its numerous programs for woodlands and wildlife. County farmers and landowners interested in preserving game life plant buckwheat, millet and soybeans as food and shelter for wildlife.

Conservationists also assist the co-operators in spring development to provide clean, fresh water for livestock, and in building farm ponds which are used for water supply, fire protection, fishing, swimming and boating.

Martin M. Gordon, SCS work unit conservationist, said the farmers are nearly always willing to accept new ideas and also Today."

Cumberland Area Shown In 'American Heritage'

By ALBERT D. DARBY
News Staff Writer

The Cumberland area as it appeared to a Baltimore artist nearly 170 years ago is featured in the August issue of American Heritage, the magazine of history, sponsored by the American Association for State and Local History and the Society of American Historians.

Pictured on the cover of the hard-backed magazine this month is a painting of President George Washington, in uniform for the last time, reviewing troops at Fort Cumberland in October 1794. He had called them out to quell the Whisky Rebellion.

The painting was the work of Frederick Kemmelmeyer, a Baltimore artist, who sketched the scene here and later did three paintings of it. The one pictured on the cover of American Heritage now hangs in the Henry Francis DuPont Winterthur Museum in Wilmington, Del.

A second version of President Washington at Fort Cumberland by Mr. Kemmelmeyer appears on page 62 of the American Heritage, accompanying an article entitled: "A Tax On Whiskey" Never! "The mountains around Cumberland apparently overwhelmed the Baltimore artist for his inside painting in the magazine depicts at least five or six mountains. Someone has suggested that the artist may have sampled some of the Pennsylvania whisky at stake in the rebellion before doing his painting.

The American Heritage article on the Whisky Rebellion by Gerald Carson provides a look at local color in this area. The author notes that an army almost as large as ever took the field in the Revolutionary War was mobilized against the farmers of western Pennsylvania.

"Equipped with mountains of ammunition, forage, baggage and a bountiful supply of tax - paid whisky, 13,000 grenadiers, dragoons, foot soldiers, pioneers, a train of artillery with six-pounders, mortars and several 'grass-hoppers' paraded over the mountains to Pittsburgh against a gaggle of homespun rebels who had already dispersed," Mr. Carson writes.

The author notes that the survival of the recently-enacted U. S. Constitution was at stake in this Whisky Rebellion. Secretary of the Treasury Alexander Hamilton had proposed that the new federal government meet part of its obligations with a tax on distilled spirits. This became law March 3, 1791.

Center Of Uprising Although opposition to the whisky tax was general throughout 8:15 p.m.

Meanwhile, the leader of the rebellion, David Bradford, fled to Louisiana, which in those days was Spanish. About 2,000 of the best riflemen left Pennsylvania and migrated to Kentucky. So the rebellion had ended before the militia arrived.

The article closes with the following paragraph: "If the rising was a failure, so was the liquor tax. The military adventure alone, without ordinary costs of collection, ran up a bill of $1,500,000, or about one-third of all the money that was realized during the life of the act. Meanwhile, the movement of the army to the Pennsylvania hinterland had brought with it a flood of cash which furnished the distillers with currency for paying their taxes. Gradually, the bitterness receded. During Jefferson's Administration, the tax was quietly repealed. Yet the watermelon armies and the whisky boys made a not inconsiderable contribution to our constitutional history. Through them, the year 1794 completed what 1787 had begun; for it established the reality of a federal union whose law was not a suggestion but a command."

Card Party Set The monthly card party for the benefit of St. Anthony's Church, Ridgely, will be held in the church social hall tomorrow at 8:15 p.m.

School Lunch Workers Get Ready For Year

Meetings Planned
August 27, 28

Plans for the school lunch program for the 1963-64 school year in Allegany County will be outlined at two meetings this week at Allegany High School.

Mrs. Gladys M. Eaton, county supervisor of the school lunch program, said that about 125 persons are expected at the Tuesday meeting for all school lunch personnel. Then on Wednesday, the 32 cafeteria managers will return to Allegany for a second day of meetings.

The Tuesday program begins at 9:15 a.m. with registration, to be followed 15 minutes later by greetings from Mrs. Eaton and Superintendent of Schools Ralph R. Webster.

State Official To Speak

First talk will be given at 9:45 a.m. when C. P. Kotowski of the division of administration and finance of the State Department of Education has comments on school lunch records.

A baking demonstration is scheduled for 10 a.m. This will be given by Jerry Kellar, service representative of International Milling Company, assisted by Robert Zeigler. Mr. Zeigler is the former manager of the Federal Bake Shop here.

After lunch at noon, there will be a meeting starting at 1 p.m. Tuesday of the Allegany County School Food Service Association. Mrs. Eaton will lead a general discussion at 1:30 p.m.

Thomas Kimmell of the sales department of Swift and Company will give a turkey and ham boning demonstration. Rounding out the day's program at 3 p.m. will be a discussion of cost control through loss control by James A. Boswell, district engineer of the Hartford Insurance Company.

Nearly 2 Million Lunches

Serving school lunches is a big business. Last year some 1,913,734 lunches were served in 32 school cafeterias. That averaged out to 10,066 children's lunches and 507 adult lunches every day.

Mrs. Eaton again will extend greetings to the 32 cafeteria managers as the second meeting opens at 9:30 a.m. Wednesday.

Featured speaker will be Walter F. Edwards, assistant state supervisor of the school lunch program. He will discuss U.S. Department of Agriculture commodities and records, starting at 9:45 a.m.

Mrs. Eaton will lead a discussion of menus at 10:30 a.m. Mrs. Anna Thwaites, bookkeeper-secretary in the school lunch office, will discuss reports and records at 11 a.m.

Rounding out the Wednesday program will be questions and answers at 11:30 a.m., luncheon at noon and quality analysis of selected vegetables at 1 p.m.

Local Man, Woman Hurt In Collision

A local man and woman were treated and later released from Sacred Heart Hospital yesterday afternoon, following a two-car collision at North Mechanic and Valley streets.

Treated for minor injuries were Miss Angela M. Fahey, 47, of 516 Columbia Street, and John Richard Rank, 48, of 444 Walnut Street. They were to be X-rayed this morning to determine if further injuries are present.

City Police reported that the accident occurred when Frank Gainer, 63, Clarksburg, W. Va., who was alone and going west on Valley Street, failed to yield the right of way and struck the front left fender of the car operated by Rank.

Gainer was charged with a motor vehicle violation. He was uninjured. Damage to each car was estimated at $500.

Dr. A. G. T. TWIGG

Dr. Twigg, Dentist, Dies At Age 74

Dr. Allan G. Thurman Twigg, local dentist, died yesterday morning in Memorial Hospital where he was a patient one month. He was 74.

Dr. Twigg, who resided at 767 Greene Street, had been in ill health the past three months.

A graduate of the University of Maryland Dental School in 1911, he marked his 50th anniversary in the practice of dentistry in June last year.

He was a member and past president of Allegany County Dental Society, of Fort Cumberland Lodge 211, AF & AM of Ali Ghan Temple of the Shrine, BPO Elks Lodge 63, Cumberland Kiwanis Club, and of the Methodist Men Club of Centre Street Methodist Church.

Dr. Cook also was a staff member of both Memorial and Sacred Heart hospitals.

A veteran of World War I, he belonged to Fort Cumberland Post 13, American Legion.

A native of Flintstone, he was a son of the late Dr. Alvin T. and Agnes (Ash) Twigg.

He is survived by his wife, Maude (Wilson) Twigg; one daughter, Mrs. Norman Glickman, Houston, Texas; one son, Kenneth W. Twigg, Huntington Beach, Calif.; eight grandchildren, and one sister, Miss Lena B. Twigg, Flintstone.

The body is at the Hafer Funeral Home where the family will receive friends today from 7 until 9 p. m. and tomorrow from 2 until 4 p. m. and 7 until 9 p. m.

Keyser Native Fatally Hurt In Baltimore

Mrs. Mamie Jones, 50, a native of Keyser, was fatally injured Saturday morning when she was struck by a car while crossing a street in Baltimore.

Mrs. Jones died shortly after being admitted to City Hospital there.

She had resided in Keyser until moving to Baltimore two months ago.

She was a daughter of Martha (Grapes) Jones, Keyser and the late George Houdershell.

Besides her mother she is survived by her husband, Floyd Jones; a son, Lester Gray Jr., Thomas, Okla.; a daughter, Marjorie Hogan of Louisiana; five sisters, Mrs. Louise Miller, Mrs. Mary Blizard and Mrs. Myrtle Gray, all of Keyser; Mrs. Christine Lease, Pattersons Creek; Mrs. Bessie Durst, Winchester, Va.; two brothers, Oliver and George Houdershell. Keyser, and six grandchildren.

The body will be returned to the Rogers Funeral Home, Keyser.

Wiring Damaged

South End firemen were called to extinguish a minor fire in the engine of a car at Second and Arch Streets. Minor damage to the wiring was caused by the fire, which is believed to have started when the vehicle backfired through the carburetor.

Safe-Teen Unit Wins National Top Honors

Safety Check Brings
Award Of Excellence

Cumberland Chapter 377, Safe-Teen Inc., has been selected by a national board of judges to receive the 1963 "Circle or Safety" award of excellence for an outstanding youth-sponsored and conducted vehicle safety check.

Confirmation of the award has been received in a letter from M. R. Darlington Jr., Washington, director of the National Vehicles Safety Check for Communities.

Stephen Swartley, president of Cumberland Chapter, said Mr. Darlington reported that the chapter will be notified soon about the presentation of the award plaque. The letter also included congratulations from the Auto Industries Highway Safety Committee, Look magazine, and the Association of State and Provincial Safety Coordinators to all who contributed to the success of the local program.

"Big League Competition" More than 3,500 cities, counties, high schools, youth clubs, industrial plants and military installations were competing for the national award of excellence in their categories. One award is given in each category in each state, according to Lynn Walker, who served as program coordinator for the Cumberland Safety Check.

"Our teen-agers were really in big league competition," Mr. Walker said. "Their successful program means that Cumberland has received international publicity. Canada and Mexico also participated in the Vehicle Safety Check."

Cumberland Chapter was organized and chartered by Safe-Teen Inc., in March 1960. The chapter immediately adopted the vehicle safety check program as a community service project and won its first national award of excellence in May 1960.

The chapter repeated its performance in June 1961 to become the only teen-age group to win the award two years in succession. That year the local chapter was the only teen-age group east of the Mississippi to win the award.

Only Three In East Last year, Chapter 377 won a Circle of Safety achievement award for the program. This year's award of excellence is one of only three made to teen-age groups in the eastern half of the United States. Two were given in Ohio, but Cumberland's was the only one between Maine and Florida.

Cumberland Chapter has presented its awards to the Allegany County Library each year as a gesture of appreciation for the cooperation of the many people in the area who have made it possible to conduct successful safety programs. Membership in the chapter is open to anyone in the age group of 14 to 19 years. Anyone wishing to join can get full particulars by calling or writing Mary Ann Carlomany, 731 Gephart Drive.

Two Killed In Collision On Rt. 220

Man, Woman Die; Father, Two-Week Infant Injured

A Cumberland area man and a New Jersey woman who gave birth to a daughter two weeks ago in Bedford were killed in a head-on collision late Saturday night south of Centerville on U. S. Route 220.

Dead are Irvin Lehr Elliott, 40, RD 3, Cumberland, an employee of the Potomac Edison Company here, and Mrs. Mildred S. McConnell, 22, formerly of Newton, N. J., who resided at 577 Pitt Street, Bedford, with her husband since August 10.

Injured in the wreck were the husband, Albert McConnell, 25, and the infant, Emma Ethel McConnell. Both were taken to Sacred Heart Hospital, where his condition is reported "serious" and the young daughter's as "fair."

According to State Police at Bedford, the accident occurred at 10:38 p.m. Saturday when the southbound car driven by Elliott crossed into the northbound lane, striking the McConnell vehicle head-on one-mile south of Koon Dam Road and demolishing both vehicles.

Elliott is reported to have died as a result of a crushed chest, fractured skull and possible broken neck. Mrs. McConnell suffered a crushed chest and fractured skull.

Hospital attaches list Mr. McConnell's injuries as a severe laceration of the chin and right knee and a fractured right leg. The infant suffered several bruises.

Mr. Elliott was born in Bedford Valley and was the son of William R. Elliott, of here, and Ruth (Zembover) Elliott, Bedford Valley.

He was a member of Centerville Methodist Church and was an Army veteran of World War II. He was a member of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, Henry Hart Post No. 1411, and of the Fraternal Order of Eagles, Aerie 245. Besides his parents, he is survived by his wife, Emma Jean (Valentine) Elliott, and a son, Harold William, at home; and a sister, Mrs. Harold Welch, Bedford Valley.

The body is at the Silcox Funeral Residence where friends will be received today and tomorrow. At noon Wednesday the body will be taken to Centerville Methodist Church for a service at 2 p.m. to be conducted by Rev. John Stevenson and Rev. Paul R. O'Brien.

Burial will be in Centerville Fellowship Cemetery.

Social Sciences Division Head Named at FSC

Dr. Norman Livergood has been appointed chairman of the social sciences division at Frostburg State College, according to R. Bowen Hardesty, president.

This is the final major appointment to be made in the reorganization of the college. Mr. Hardesty said. This division includes the departments of history, geography and social sciences, related.

Dr. Livergood is a native of Kansas and received his early schooling in Oklahoma. He received his bachelor of arts degree from Phillips University, Enid, Okla., with major in philosophy; a bachelor of divinity degree from Yale University Divinity School in 1958; his master of arts degree in political philosophy from Yale in 1959, his thesis being "Theory of the State in Marx"; and in 1962 his doctor of philosophy also from Yale University in social philosophy. His dissertation was entitled "The principle of activity in Karl Marx's Philosophy."

Dr. Livergood has been professor of philosophy at St. Lawrence University and at the time of employment at Frostburg State was professor of philosophy and acting chairman of the department of philosophy at Ohio Wesleyan University.

Active in research, Dr. Livergood has written a book "Reasoning." This book relates to reflective thinking and is college and general reading.

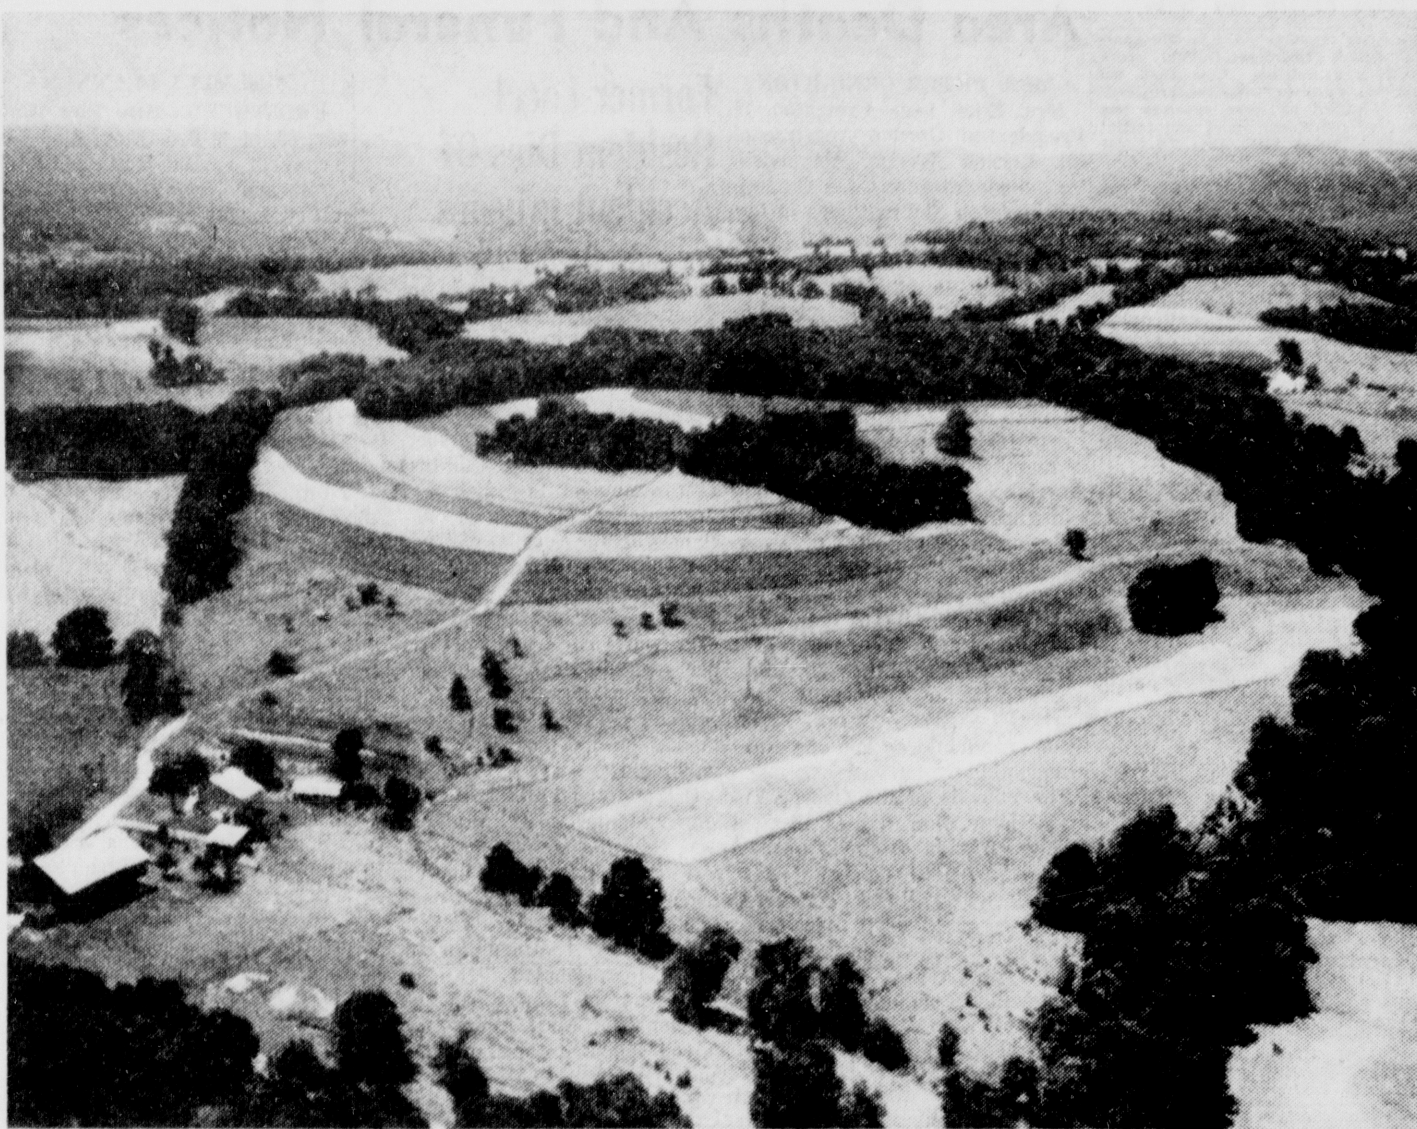

Dr. Livergood is active in varsity basketball, golf, tennis and badminton. He is a member of the Unitarian Church and of the Philosophical Association. He is married to the former Miss Kathryn Stella and they have two children, Rebecca and Regan. They will reside at 90 1/2 Brad-dock Street, Frostburg.

Conservation Practices

These pictures and the one at the bottom of the page, all taken by Clarence Deland of Beltsville, service photographer for the Soil Conservation Service, illustrate good conservation practices in use on Allegany County farms. Top, aerial photo of farm of Wilbert Paul, Mt. Savage, chairman of the Allegany Soil Conservation District, shows contour stripping and cultivation, crop rotation, tile drainage system, diversion terrace and woodland improvement.

At right is William Roche, Star Route, Flintstone, who has found a profitable use for water on his property — frog farming. Here he holds a pair of frogs used as breeders in his pond.

633 Landowners Find Conservation Profitable

By NAOMI F. RICE
News Staff Writer

Some 633 farmers and landowners in Allegany County have established one or more conservation practices on their land in cooperation with the Soil Conservation Service District here.

The 633 farmers, known as co-operators, represent 111,238 acres of land. The co-operators are approved by the Soil Conservation District established here in 1942 which works on a memorandum of understanding with the U. S. Soil Conservation Service.

The local SCS staff works with the farmers at their request. After a cooperator has prepared a basic plan the SCS aids with advice and tools in making the plan workable.

Some of the main conservation practices used by area co-operators include contour strip cropping and cultivation, crop rotation, open drainage ditches, tile drain systems, diversion terraces, farm ponds and woodland and wildlife improvement practices.

New "Farming" Venture

One county farmer, William Roche, has begun a new venture in farming, frog raising. This type of farming establishes an other use for water and is a hobby as well as a business venture.

Another phase of conservation is its numerous programs for woodlands and wildlife. County farmers and landowners interested in preserving game life plant buckwheat, millet and soybeans as food and shelter for wildlife.

Conservationists also assist the co-operators in spring development to provide clean, fresh water for livestock, and in building farm ponds which are used for water supply, fire protection, fishing, swimming and boating.

Martin M. Gordon, SCS work unit conservationist, said the farmers are nearly always willing to accept new ideas and also to work out new ones of their own.

Mr. Gordon's staff includes Stuart Delbrook, conservation technician; Joseph Silbert, conservation aide, and Kenneth Stone, soil scientist, who divides his time in Allegany and Garrett County soil mapping. Mrs. Maxine Yokum is clerk-typist for the staff.

An Education Job

This group works under the district supervisors, of which group Wilbert Paul is chairman. Floyd Busser vice chairman, Charles Harvey treasurer, and Nat Workman and Theodore Stegmaier, members.

Soil Conservation Service provides assistance to urban dwellers as well as farmers upon request, Mr. Gordon said. Educational activities are also a part of the service, as Mr. Gordon spends considerable time with students from elementary schools through college, both in the field and in classrooms.

SCS also has some equipment available for use in its various conservation programs, including two Brillion seeders, two fertilizer and lime spreaders, two rotary mowers and a Jeep vehicle with trailer.

Rotary To Meet

The Cumberland Rotary Club will hold a luncheon meeting tomorrow at 12:15 p. m. at Central YMCA. Francis A. Kenney will introduce Rev. Paul V. Taylor, who will speak on "China Today."

Cumberland Area Shown In 'American Heritage'

By ALBERT D. DARRY
News Staff Writer

The Cumberland area as it appeared to a Baltimore artist nearly 170 years ago is featured in the August issue of American Heritage, the magazine of history, sponsored by the American Association for State and Local History and the Society of American Historians.

Pictured on the cover of the hard-backed magazine this month is a painting of President George Washington, in uniform for the last time, reviewing troops at Fort Cumberland in October 1794. He had called them out to quell the Whisky Rebellion.

The painting was the work of Frederick Kemmelmeyer, a Baltimore artist, who sketched the scene here and later did three paintings of it. The one pictured on the cover of American Heritage now hangs in the Henry Francis DuPont Winterthur Museum in Wilmington, Del.

Plenty Of Mountains

A second version of President Washington at Fort Cumberland by Mr. Kemmelmeyer appears on page 62 of the American Heritage, accompanying an article entitled, "A Tax On Whiskey? Never!" The mountains around Cumberland apparently overwhelmed the Baltimore artist for his inside painting in the magazine depicts at least five or six mountains. Someone has suggested that the artist may have sampled some of the Pennsylvania whisky at stake in the rebellion before doing his painting.

The American Heritage article on the Whisky Rebellion by Gerald Carson provides a look at local color in this area. The author notes that an army almost as large as ever took the field in the Revolutionary War was mobilized against the farmers of western Pennsylvania.

"Equipped with mountains of ammunition, forage, baggage and a bountiful supply of tax-paid whisky, 12,000 grenadiers, dragoons, foot soldiers, pioneers, a train of artillery with six-pounders, mortars and several 'grass-hoppers' paraded over the mountains to Pittsburgh against a gaggle of homespun rebels who had already dispersed," Mr. Carson writes.

The author notes that the survival of the recently-enacted U. S. Constitution was at stake in the Whisky Rebellion. Secretary of the Treasury Alexander Hamilton had proposed that the new federal government meet part of its obligations with a tax on distilled spirits. This became law March 3, 1791.

Center Of Uprising

Although opposition to the whisky tax was general throughout the new nation, particularly on the frontier, popular fury reached its peak in the Pennsylvania frontier counties of Fayette, Allegheny, Westmoreland and Washington, all within an easy present-day drive of Cumberland. In 1791 there were some 5,000 log still-houses in these four counties alone.

Grain was most abundant west of the mountains but the Pennsylvania farmers couldn't sell it in distant markets unless it was reduced in bulk and enhanced in value. Thus, a Pennsylvania farmer's "best holt" was whisky. Mr. Carson writes.

The high-water mark of the insurrection was the occupation of Pittsburgh.

Conditions became so acute that President Washington requisitioned 15,000 militia, 13,000 of whom actually marched, from Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Virginia and Maryland. The left wing, from Virginia and Maryland, marched west to Fort Cumberland in October 1794. From here they headed north to Bedford, Pa., to converge with right wing moving west through Pennsylvania with militiamen from Pennsylvania and New Jersey.

Rebels Disperse

Meanwhile, the leader of the rebellion, David Bradford, fled to Louisiana, which in those days was Spanish. About 2,000 of the best riflemen left Pennsylvania and migrated to Kentucky. So the rebellion had ended before the militia arrived.

The article closes with the following paragraph:

"If the rising was a failure, so was the liquor tax. The military adventure alone, without ordinary costs of collection, ran up a bill of $1,500,000, or about one-third of all the money that was realized during the life of the act. Meanwhile, the movement of the army to the Pennsylvania hinterland had brought with it a flood of cash which furnished the distillers with currency for paying their taxes. Gradually, the bitterness receded. During Jefferson's Administration, the tax was quietly repealed. Yet the watermelon armies and the whisky boys made a not inconsiderable contribution to our constitutional history. Through them, the year 1794 completed what 1787 had begun; for it established the reality of a federal union whose law was not a suggestion but a command."

Card Party Set

The monthly card party for the benefit of St. Anthony's Church, Ridgeley, will be held in the church social hall tomorrow at 8:15 p. m.

School Lunch Workers Get Ready For Year

Meetings Planned August 27, 28

Plans for the school lunch program for the 1963-64 school year in Allegany County will be outlined at two meetings this week at Allegany High School.

Mrs. Gladys M. Eaton, county supervisor of the school lunch program, said that about 125 persons are expected at the Tuesday meeting for all school lunch personnel. Then on Wednesday, the 32 cafeteria managers will return to Allegany for a second day of meetings.

The Tuesday program begins at 9:15 a.m. with registration, to be followed 15 minutes later by greetings from Mrs. Eaton and Superintendent of Schools Ralph R. Webster.

State Official To Speak

First talk will be given at 9:45 a.m. when C. P. Kotowski of the division of administration and finance of the State Department of Education has comments on school lunch records.

A baking demonstration is scheduled for 10 a.m. This will be given by Jerry Kellar, service representative of International Milling Company, assisted by Robert Zeigler. Mr. Zeigler is the former manager of the Federal Bake Shop here.

After lunch at noon, there will be a meeting starting at 1 p.m. Tuesday of the Allegany County School Food Service Association. Mrs. Eaton will lead a general discussion at 1:30 p.m.

Thomas Kimmell of the sales department of Swift and Company will give a turkey and ham boning demonstration. Rounding out the day's program at 3 p.m. will be a discussion of cost control through loss control by James A. Boswell, district engineer of the Hartford Insurance Company.

Nearly 2 Million Lunches

Serving school lunches is a big business. Last year some 1,913,734 lunches were served in 32 school cafeterias. That averaged out to 10,066 children's lunches and 507 adult lunches every day.

Mrs. Eaton again will extend greetings to the 32 cafeteria managers as the second meeting opens at 9:30 a.m. Wednesday.

Featured speaker will be Walter F. Edwards, assistant state supervisor of the school lunch program. He will discuss U.S. Department of Agriculture commodities and records, starting at 9:45 a.m.

Mrs. Eaton will lead a discussion of menus at 10:30 a.m. Mrs. Anna Thwaites, bookkeeper-secretary in the school lunch office, will discuss reports and records at 11 a.m.

Rounding out the Wednesday program will be questions and answers at 11:30 a.m., luncheon at noon and quality analysis of selected vegetables at 1 p.m.

Local Man, Woman Hurt In Collision

A local man and woman were treated and later released from Sacred Heart Hospital yesterday afternoon, following a two-car collision at North Mechanic and Valley streets.

Treated for minor injuries were Miss Angela M. Fahey, 47, of 516 Columbia Street, and John Richard Rank, 48, of 444 Walnut Street. They were to be X-rayed this morning to determine if further injuries are present.

City Police reported that the accident occurred when Frank Gainer, 63, Clarksburg, W. Va., who was alone and going west on Valley Street, failed to yield the right of way and struck the front left fender of the car operated by Rank.

Gainer was charged with a motor vehicle violation. He was uninjured. Damage to each car was estimated at $500.
